PREFACE.

For, behold, I will bless all those who labor in my vineyard with a mighty blessing.—DOCTRINE AND COVENANTS, xxi: 9.

The fifty years' marvelous growth of the Sunday School organization of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the Rocky Mountains of America and in other portions of the world is reason sufficient for the appearance of this record. The period from the assembling of that little group of Sunday School pupils gathered in the humble schoolhouse in the Fourteenth Ward, Salt Lake City, December 9, 1849, to the grand and inspiring demonstration in the Tabernacle in the same city, October 8, 1899—nearly fifty years later—we have in the following pages endeavored to briefly and faithfully chronicle. To round out that poetic period so as to embrace a few items of the local Jubilee celebrations, and include the Sunday School statistics of that year, we have continued this history to the 31st of December, 1899.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON SUNDAY SCHOOL JUBILEE AND HISTORY.

General Superintendent George Q. Cannon, and Members of the Deseret Sunday School Union Board.

DEAR BRETHREN:—With the completion of the JUBILEE HISTORY OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS SUNDAY SCHOOLS, our duties as your committee on the Sunday School Jubilee and History close. We therefore desire to make a report to you of our labors.

The general celebration held in the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, Utah, October 8th, 1899, in commemoration of the establishment of the first Sunday School in the Rocky Mountains, has passed into history, and serves as a monument to mark the half-century of progress of the Sunday Schools of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. The program and other items of interest connected with the celebration, will be found in the volume just completed.

If the general celebration held in the Tabernacle was successful, the local celebrations held in the various wards and missions throughout the Church, on the 10th of December, 1899, were none the less so. So far as we have been able to learn, the Sunday Schools generally carried out faithfully the allotted program, and made the occasion one long to be remembered. In looking over the reports of the local celebrations, we can but feel that the Lord was very gracious unto all, and blessed each gathering with a rich outpouring of his Holy Spirit.

The task of completing the history of our Sunday Schools, with such data relating to their establishment as we could obtain from the respective Sunday Schools throughout the Church, has not been an easy one. Since the general and local celebrations, we have worked almost incessantly to bring our labors to a successful issue, and it has seemed at times as though this would never be realized. The completion of our general history was comparatively easy, because we could get the desired information, as a rule, by personal visits to those who had it to give. Not so, however, with the data we desired from each school. This had to be obtained by correspondence; and hundreds of letters on the subject have been written to the Sunday Schools throughout the Church. In many instances our efforts to obtain the information desired were neutralized by the inattention of the parties addressed, or their inability to furnish the information needed.

To get the necessary data from the stake Sunday School organizations, and the various Sunday Schools, we adopted a uniform system, which was as follows: We had two blank forms printed, containing questions, which, if properly answered, would furnish us the requisite matter for the contemplated history. One of these forms was for the stake Sunday School organizations to fill out, and the other for the use of the Sunday schools in the wards and missions. We mailed these blank forms to the proper parties with a request that they be returned to us correctly filled out as soon as possible. When the forms were returned, the matter contained therein was edited, typewritten, and sent back to the Stake or ward organization, for any necessary correction. With this typewritten matter, we also sent a letter requesting that the data be carefully examined by the proper parties, corrections made where needed, and the corrected copy returned to us within ten days. Quite a number cheerfully complied with our request, but very many, we are compelled to state, in justice to ourselves, did not do so. If any mistakes have therefore occurred through this inattention to our instructions, we feel that the responsibility is not ours.

The object in getting out the work, as we understood it, was to compile in one volume, our general Sunday School history, including a brief account of each stake Sunday School organization, the date of the establishment of each Sunday School, together with such other information as would be appreciated in a work of this kind, and which would serve to preserve in a brief but complete form our general history, for the use of those who shall succeed us in the great Sunday School work. When these reports came back, however, we found that many of our brethren and sisters had made all sorts of requests of us; some wanted elaborate histories of their schools printed, others the names of all the officers and teachers inserted who had served for years in the past; still others wanted biographical articles to become part of the work. It can be readily understood that all this matter could not go into our history for the reason that it would have been impracticable, because we could not have gotten the necessary information together to make the history of each school complete, and then even should we have succeeded in this, the matter thus collected would have filled several volumes, a proposition too costly to be undertaken, and one that would be foreign to the original intention.

However, we gave the matter due consideration, and inserted, with the dates of the establishment of the various Sunday Schools, a list of the superintendents, assistant superintendents and secretaries, and the time each one served as far as obtainable; and have provided, at the end of the book, sixteen blank pages suitably ruled and headed, in which can be written such Sunday School history as the owner may desire to place therein. These additions have very materially increased the size of the work over the original estimate.

We think it would be a good plan for each Sunday School to obtain one or more copies of this History and write in the blank pages a full list of all those faithful workers whose labors have been such a help in making the Sunday School a success; names of assistant secretaries, treasurers, librarians, choristers, organists, teachers, and others should be enrolled, and also a more detailed history of the school might be recorded; and when this is done the book should be preserved for future reference. Also the army of faithful Sunday School workers should each possess themselves of one of these books, and enter their own individual Sunday School history in it, and cause it to be handed down to their children, that they may emulate the example presented in the lives and labors of these faithful men and women.

We cannot mention the names of all to whom we are indebted for assistance in our labors, it would take several pages to do so. We do desire, however, to thank one and all who have in any way assisted us in the task we have just completed. We can assure the brethren and sisters who have so kindly aided us, that they have our heartfelt thanks. Elder Edwin F. Parry has been our editor. Much of the work of bringing the information obtained from the different sources into readable shape devolved upon him, and to him we also tender our most hearty thanks. We are also much indebted to Brother Charles R. Savage, and the members of his establishment, for the care displayed by them in grouping and producing the photographs for the plates our book contains.

Now brethren, we hope our labors will meet with the approval of yourselves and the Deseret Sunday School Union over which you preside, and that the result will fill the requirements intended, namely: that those who come after us and labor in the Sunday School cause, may have historical data to build upon, and thus our early history in regard to the great Sunday School movement among the Latter-day Saints be preserved for future generations. Should such prove to be the case we shall be more than repaid for our labors.

JUBILEE HISTORY

LATTER-DAY SAINTS SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

THE GENERAL SUNDAY SCHOOL MOVEMENT.

FIRST SUNDAY SCHOOL IN THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS.

TO Elder Richard Ballantyne is due the credit for establishing the first Latter-day Saints Sunday School in Utah, which in fact was the first organization of the kind in the Rocky Mountain region. Brother Ballantyne came to Salt Lake valley in the fall of 1848—the year after its first settlement by the Latter-day Saints—and located in the “Old Fort” which was erected on what is now know as “Pioneer Square,” in the south-western quarter of Salt Lake City.

In the Spring of 1849 he conceived the idea of establishing a Sunday School, and soon after he began preparations for building a house in which to hold the school he had in contemplation, and which would also serve as a residence for himself and family. He had at this time already moved from the Fort, and was living on his city lot situated on what is now the corner of First West and Third South Streets, in the Fourteenth Ward. Here he had built one small room which he used for a summer kitchen. Having two wagons, he used one for a sleeping apartment and the other for a store room. As many other men did in those early days, Brother Ballantyne built his own house, doing the greater part of the work himself. To obtain material for the erection of the building he went to Mill Creek Canyon, south-east of the city, and cut down trees to provide the necessary timber. The logs thus secured he took to the mill to be sawed on shares, and then hauled his share down to his home. He procured rock from the quarry in Red Butte Canyon and "adobes" from the old yard in the western part of the city, where they were made in those days. Then, during the time he could spare from other labors necessary to provide food, he put up the walls of the structure. He did all the masonry and all the carpenter work with the exception of making the window sashes and the doors.

The room to be used for school purposes was built in front of and adjoining the smaller room which he had put up earlier in the year. When completed, the new addition formed the principal part of the building, the room used as a summer kitchen forming a "lean-to" at the rear. As this house was what might be considered one typical of those days a more detailed description of it will be of interest.

Its foundation was of roughly dressed red sandstone and the walls were of "adobes,"—large, sun-dried bricks. The school room was twenty feet long and eighteen feet wide (outside measurements), and was about ten feet from the foundation to the square of the walls, or as we would now say from floor to ceiling, but this room had no ceiling, although it had a floor of dressed lumber. The rafters were dressed logs. Across these logs boards were placed and the crevices between the boards were covered with slabs; the whole roof was then overlaid with several inches of soil. The house faced the street on the west. The large room was well lighted, having two windows in front and a window and a door, the upper part of which was glass, on the south side. The finished work in the building was painted and the walls were plastered on the inside. Benches for seating the pupils were made of wooden slabs. They were simply constructed by making holes in the slabs and fastening legs in them. The room was heated from an open fire-place in the south end of the room.

On the west and south sides of the lot on which this building stood was a plain pole fence. With a view to beautifying the surroundings of his new home, and to provide a shade in summer, Brother Ballantyne had, during the Spring when he first located there, procured from City Creek Canyon a number of young native cottonwood trees, which he planted about his place.

The accompanying picture is taken from a sketch of the above-described building and surroundings, made by the artist John Hafen from descriptions furnished by Brother Ballantyne. The sketching was done under the supervision of a committee appointed by the Deseret Sunday School Union Board, in the presence of the committee and Brother Ballantyne, and was approved by the latter as being an excellent representation of the building as it appeared at the time (1849.) It may be here stated that the data for this sketch of the first Sunday School in Utah was given at the same interview to this same committee by Elder Ballantyne.

When the building was completed, the children of the neighborhood were invited in for the purpose of forming a Sunday School. Quite a number of children responded to this invitation and at the first session held the room was pretty well filled. This was on Sunday, the 9th day of December, 1849, and at this time Elder Ballantyne was both superintendent and teacher. His wife and child were there with the gathered children and in the presence of all assembled on that memorable day he dedicated by prayer the room for the purpose for which it was designed. Among the children who attended this school were members of the families of Apostles John Taylor, Wilford Woodruff, Parley P. Pratt and Franklin D. Richards, as well as children of other prominent families; and it may be here stated that several of the pupils of this school have since attained prominence in the Church.

During the first year the school numbered about fifty pupils. The children's names were not enrolled, nor were minutes of the proceedings taken. The exercises began with singing and prayer, as is customary in Sunday Schools now. After the opening exercises a scripture lesson was presented. The pupils furnished their own books, such as the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. The pupils were mostly small, ranging from eight or nine to fourteen years of age, and the lessons were chiefly from the New Testament. The children took a delight in attending the school, and there was no trouble in getting them there, although it opened at eight o'clock in the morning. In those days general Sabbath services were held at ten o'clock, a. m., and the school dismissed in time to give its members an opportunity to attend them.

Elder Ballantyne at this time was second counselor to John Murdock, the bishop of the ward, who was in full accord with what his co-worker was doing to educate the youth in the principles of the Gospel.

In referring to the motive he had in organizing this Sunday School, Elder Ballantyne remarked that he saw a need for such an institution. "I felt," said he, "that the Gospel was too precious to myself to be withheld from the children. They ought to have the privilege of Gospel teaching, and that was the main purpose—to teach them the Gospel—because I felt it was very precious to me, and I thought it would be precious to them; and it was my duty to do that."

The school continued in Brother Ballantyne's house for about a year. During the summer of 1850 a meeting house was built in the Fourteenth Ward, and as soon as it was completed the school moved into it. Brother Ballantyne continued as superintendent, but he now received some assistance. Brothers Joseph Horne and Phineas Richards were assistant superintendents, and several others acted as teachers, the school being divided into a number of classes.

In 1852 Elder Ballantyne went upon a three years' mission to India, and Brother Joseph Horne succeeded him as superintendent of the school.

OTHER EARLY SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Following the example of Elder Ballantyne, many others who were inspired with a similar interest in the spiritual welfare of the young turned their efforts toward the establishment of Sunday Schools in other wards and settlements.

In the year 1852 Sunday Schools were started in the Fourth, Tenth and Twelfth wards, and also one in the Council House, Salt Lake City, under the auspices of the chancellor of the Deseret University, Orson Spencer; and in the same year one was established in American Fork. During the following year one each was opened in the Seventh and the Sixteenth wards of Salt Lake City, and in Manti, Sanpete County. Elder Ballantyne having returned from his mission to India, organized, in 1856, a Sunday School in the Fifteenth Ward. The same year a Sunday School in the Seventeenth Ward, Salt Lake City, and one in Tooele, Tooele County were begun; and in 1857 the Sunday School of Draper, Salt Lake County, and that of Farmington, Davis County, were started.

In the year 1858, when, at the approach of General Johnston's army, the Saints of Salt Lake City and the settlements north of it vacated their homes and moved to the south, all Sunday Schools affected by the "move" were of course discontinued. A number of early schools established in settlements south of Salt Lake City were compelled to close even before the approach of the army. The Indian attacks caused some of the settlements to be broken up and deserted for various lengths of time. In the early sixties Sunday Schools commenced to be re-established in the various settlements, and within a few years they sprang up in all parts of the country then settled. Owing to the incompleteness of data respecting their organizations, it is very difficult to give Sunday School statistics for a number of years after the organization of the first school. The history of individual schools (especially of those which began at an early day), which is given in another part of this volume, will be found to be somewhat lacking in statistical information.

ESTABLISHMENT OF A SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.

It must be borne in mind that all the early Sunday Schools in these valleys were organized and conducted by independent effort of those interested in the welfare of the young. There was but little unity of action among the settlements tending to the promotion of a general Sunday School movement.

Those engaged in the laudable work during the early period met with many obstacles and difficulties. They were inadequately supplied with such text books as were then, as now, in general use in the advanced classes—Bible, Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants; and there was almost an entire absence of works specially adapted to the primary classes. Besides this, they were in many instances without suitable meeting places.

Many teachers were entirely without experience in teaching or even in having before attended such organizations. Much of the work was therefore experimental; and in some instances far from being satisfactory. It was then a common thing to find the day school text books used in the Sunday School, and the class work often consisted merely of a reading or spelling exercise. Yet there were many faithful teachers full of earnestness and zeal, and although they were without pedagogical training and destitute of printed guides or manuals of instruction, they were not lacking in the guidance received through the Holy Spirit, and, having that, their labors were rewarded by the production of good fruits.

Those who became actively engaged in Sunday School work soon realized the necessity of better methods and facilities for carrying on and continuing the good cause then in its infancy, and the importance of co-operation to attain the desired results became more and more apparent.

With the beginning of the year 1866, Elder George Q. Cannon commenced the publication of a Sunday School periodical which was called the Juvenile Instructor. While on foreign missions he had become deeply impressed with the importance of taking steps at home to instruct the children of the Latter-day Saints in a systematic manner in the principles of the everlasting Gospel. To his mind there seemed to be a greater field at home for missionary effort among the rising generation than among any other people or anywhere else in the world. Realizing the value of the press in inculcating proper ideas upon this subject, he became convinced that a journal devoted to the Sunday School interest would be of great value.

The effect of the publication of the Juvenile Instructor was almost immediately felt throughout Zion. It was a means of strengthening the hands of those who had the Sunday School cause at heart, and it gave shape and direction to the efforts which were being made in the organization and maintenance of Sunday Schools. Its influence at that time was thus most beneficial, and was a powerful agency in bringing about concentration of effort in this direction. It performed in those early days a most excellent mission, and during the thirty-four years which have elapsed since then, it has continued this mission and has done most effective and valuable work.

As early as the Spring of 1866 the organization of a Sunday School Union was suggested by William H. Shearman, in a letter written to the Juvenile Instructor, and published in the issue of that paper dated April 15, 1866. The following year, at the October conference of the Church the desirability of an organization for the promotion of the Sunday School cause throughout Zion received some attention, and on the 4th of November following a meeting of interested Sunday School workers was held in the Thirteenth Ward Assembly Hall, Salt Lake City, for the purpose of effecting a central organization. This was the first move made among the Latter-day Saints for such a purpose. There were not so many present as was expected at this gathering, so an adjournment was made until one week later. At the second meeting there was a better attendance. Among those present were Presidents Brigham Young and Daniel H. Wells, Apostles George A. Smith, Wilford Woodruff, George Q. Cannon and Brigham Young, Jr. George Q. Cannon presided at this meeting, and stated that the objects in assembling were to endeavor to arrive at an understanding of the best system of teaching in Sunday School, and to organize a Sunday School Union. At this meeting it was proposed to call the organization about to be formed the "Parent Sunday School Union," the idea prevailing then that this organization would be but the first of such a character and that others would be established throughout the Territory after the pattern of this one.

Apostle George Q. Cannon was elected president of the Union, Elder Edward L. Sloan, secretary, and Elders George Goddard and Robert L. Campbell corresponding secretaries. Apostles Brigham Young, Jr., Albert Carrington and George A. Smith were chosen as a committee to examine and decide upon books suitable for Sunday School libraries. During the meeting President Brigham Young instructed those present on various points connected with the Sunday School movement and the cause of education in general. He spoke of the value his early Bible reading had been to him in his ministerial labors of after years, and of the benefit the Elders had ever derived from an extensive acquaintance with the Holy Scriptures. He was followed by Apostles George A. Smith and George Q. Cannon. The latter stated that Elder David O. Calder had kindly volunteered to teach gratuitously the tonic-sol-fa system of music to the Sunday School teachers as soon as a sufficient number would come forward to form a class.

It was not until the year 1872 that this central organization, afterwards recognized by the name of the "Deseret Sunday School Union," assumed a more compact and definite form. On the 12th of June of that year a meeting of Sunday School superintendents and teachers was held in Salt Lake City. At that meeting the desire for a more active organization was expressed, but in the absence of the president of the Union no action was taken further than to appoint a committee, composed of Elders George Goddard, John Morgan and John B. Maiben, to present the minutes of the meeting to Apostle George Q. Cannon, who had some five years previously been elected president of the Union, for his approval, to make known to him the feelings expressed at the meeting, and to invite his counsel and co-operation in bringing about a more extended concert of action; to give greater impetus and solidity to the efforts of the Union. The committee waited upon Elder George Q. Cannon, and he heartily endorsed the sentiments of the meeting. Another meeting was held on the 24th of June, at which it was decided to hold regular meetings of Sunday School workers on the first Monday in each month. These gatherings were first held in the old City Hall, corner of State and First South Streets, Salt Lake City, then in the Council House which formerly stood on the corner of Main and South Temple Streets; afterwards in the Fourteenth Ward assembly rooms, still later they were held in the Salt Lake Assembly Hall. They continued to grow in interest until they were among the most popular and most largely attended of any of the assemblies of the people of Zion. At these meetings Sunday School topics were discussed, suggestions as to the best method of conducting Sunday Schools were offered, and lectures on teaching, etc., were delivered.

In 1884 these general monthly meetings were given in charge of the Sunday School authorities of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion and became a stake institution; and the general meetings of the Union were appointed to be held twice a year at the times of the general conferences of the Church.

In reading the minutes of the regular meetings of the Union, it is exceedingly interesting to note that many of the same subjects that are still considered among the most important were then canvassed with much vigor, and that the instructions given were to a very great extent the same as those that it is still found necessary to inculcate. The subjects of punctuality, of the grading of the schools, of rewards, of the necessity of books and publications adapted to the use of the Sunday Schools of the Saints, of a collection of hymns and songs composed by members of the Church, with suitable music, of keeping a register of attendance of members, of preserving records of schools, of furnishing statistical reports, of selecting suitable works for Sunday School libraries, of securing larger average attendance, and of the spiritual development of the pupils, are found among those which received attention in the early meetings of the Union.

It is a source of gratification to know that the consideration of these questions at those meetings was not in vain. Through the efforts of the Union Board many of the urgent wants and necessities among Sunday School workers in past years are now supplied. Their labors have brought about a greater uniformity in the methods of conducting Sunday Schools, and higher efficiency in class teaching. The suggestions and instructions they have given, their missionary labors among the schools of Zion, and the numerous publications issued, have greatly aided in bringing about this better condition.

GROWTH OF THE UNION.

The first statistical reports received from the Sunday Schools in Zion were in 1872. From them may be gained an idea of the extent and numerical strength of these organizations at that period. These schools were then all located within twenty counties of Utah and two counties in Idaho, namely: Beaver, Box Elder, Cache, Davis, Iron, Juab, Kane, Millard, Morgan, Piute, Rich, Salt Lake, Sanpete, Sevier, Summit, Tooele, Utah, Wasatch, Washington and Weber in Utah, and Bear Lake and Oneida in Idaho. From 20 of these counties reports were received. These reports showed that there were 190 schools then established. The total membership in them, exclusive of 41 that failed to report, was 14,781, counting officers, teachers and pupils. The annual report for 1899—27 years later—gives the number of schools embraced within the Deseret Sunday School Union as 982, and shows a total enrollment of 119,998 members, which includes those abroad in mission fields. From this it will readily be seen that the growth of the Union as represented by the increase of Sunday Schools and Sunday School members, has been very rapid.

The spread of Sunday Schools into new territory during the same period has been no less remarkable. The reports of 1874 show that schools had been established in Uinta County, Wyoming, and Lincoln County, Nevada, in addition to those in counties already named.

Previous to the death of President Brigham Young, which occurred on the 29th of August, 1877, a more thorough organization of the wards and stakes of Zion was effected by the general authorities of the Church, and the Sunday School reports for 1876, and continuously ever since, contain statistics for each stake, instead of for each county as previously given. The stakes represented in that year's report (1876) were: Bear Lake, Beaver, Box Elder, Cache, Davis, Juab, Kanab, Millard, Morgan, Panguitch, Parowan, Salt Lake, Sanpete, Sevier, St. George, Summit, Tooele, Utah, Wasatch and Weber. Within these stakes was embraced practically all the territory of the counties already mentioned, and of course the reports from them included all Sunday Schools of the Saints within their boundaries as well as any other schools in places adjacent.

As the Saints settled in new localities other stakes of Zion were formed and new Sunday Schools were established. During the next ten years Sunday Schools were reported in five new stakes in Arizona, namely: Little Colorado, Eastern Arizona, Maricopa, St. Joseph and Snowflake, also in Emery and San Juan stakes in Utah, Bannock and Cassia stakes in Idaho, and in San Luis stake in Colorado. Later on reports were received from schools in other stakes formed of settlements in Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, New Mexico, Arizona, and Oregon.

The enforcement of proscriptive congressional enactments against the Saints caused many of them to seek homes in places outside the confines of the United States. Some went to Mexico and others to Canada, and established colonies in each of those countries. There they made homes, were organized into wards and settlements and later into stakes of Zion. Sunday Schools were established in their midst and have become permanent institutions, as they are in other stakes.

Of late years the mission Sunday Schools of the Latter-day Saints throughout the world have been brought within the fold of the Deseret Sunday School Union and have been privileged to receive of the benefits of its supervision and fostering care.

For detailed information concerning the numerical growth of the Union the reader is referred to the tables under the heading "Statistics," which appear later on; and for date of organization of the various Sunday Schools and other information concerning them he is referred to the history of individual schools in another part of this volume.

The growth of the Union, greatly increased the business devolving upon its officers, and made it necessary to open an office where its affairs might be attended to, and to which application might be made for information upon matters pertaining to Sunday School work, as well as for literature and such supplies as were furnished by the Union Board. For many years after its organization the Union was without a permanent place for holding the business meetings of its officers, and its publications were handled by various business houses. In January, 1891, rooms for the office and headquarters of the Deseret Sunday School Union were secured in the Constitution Building, Salt Lake City. In November, 1897, the office was removed to the Templeton Building, its present location.

ATTAINMENTS OF THE UNION.

To set forth in full all that has been accomplished by the Deseret Sunday School Union, under the blessings of the Lord, and through the untiring labors of its officers and those who have assisted them, will not be attempted here. Only the most important actions of its officers and the most prominent achievements of the Union will be noted in the following pages.

FIRST PUBLIC CELEBRATION.

Prominent among the early undertakings of the Union officers was that of getting up a grand Sunday School celebration. This musical festival or jubilee, as it was called, was held in the Large Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, on the 24th of July, 1874—the twenty-seventh anniversary of the entrance of the Pioneers into Salt Lake Valley. It was a most pleasing and meritorious celebration, and will be ever remembered by those who participated in it. The project originated with the officers of the Union more than a year before it took place, and elaborate and well-studied preparations were made to insure a complete success.

The importance of this jubilee demands more than passing notice, as its influence upon the Sunday School work and upon the musical interests of the community, has been far-reaching. It not only awakened renewed and more extended interest in the good work, but resulted in perceptibly advancing the cause in other respects.

The songs and music rendered on the occasion were written by home poets and musicians, and the appearance of these songs in print and their public rendition encouraged others who had talent in that line to compose additional pieces for publication and use in the Sunday Schools; thus much talent that was either latent or undeveloped was brought out and made serviceable. The rehearsing of the songs for the celebration added interest to the various schools that participated, and served as an initiative step towards securing better musical exercises in many of them, and caused greater attention to be given to this important feature of all our religious gatherings. The interest thereby created in the subject of music, and the funds realized from the receipts of the great celebration enabled the Union officers to issue music books and other publications for which the Sunday Schools were in great need. The success of this celebration led the Sunday School authorities of other places to hold similar jubilees on a smaller scale; and for several successive years afterwards musical festivals were held in the Large Tabernacle in Salt Lake City.

The Deseret News of July 25, 1874, contained the following account of this first grand Sunday School celebration:

THE GREAT JUVENILE JUBILEE AN IMMENSE SUCCESS.

The great Juvenile Jubilee, for which there had been so much previous preparation, and to which the anticipations of thousands had, for a considerable time, "forward pointed the view," came off yesterday at the New Tabernacle.

For at least a couple of hours before the time announced for the commencement of the performances, the streets in the vicinity of the Temple Block appeared alive with people, mostly children of the various Sunday Schools, who flowed in from every direction, in order of procession under the guidance of their superintendents and teachers, and the gaiety of the scene was intensified by the music from bands in the vicinity.

We have several times alluded to the decorations of the interior of the huge building—the great center-piece suspended from the ceiling, the garlands, wreaths, festoons, mottoes, flags, banners, and a thousand other things too numerous to mention now. We may merely say that they exceeded in beauty, general excellence and appropriateness any of the kind that we have ever witnessed, and expressions of admiration concerning them were, as far as we are aware, universal. The representations emblematical of the condition of these valleys in 1847, contrasted with that of 1874, were well conceived and arranged, the first consisting of an archway of sunflowers and sagebrush embellished with a massive head of a buffalo, with a tableau vivante of Indians, and the other composed of evergreens, choice flowers and a tableau of cultivated people. The pictures spoke for themselves.

* * * * *

The Sunday School children of four counties, Salt Lake, Utah, Davis and Weber, were there, and the aggregate number must have been somewhere between 8,000 and 10,000, and therefore every foot of space had to be utilized; even the aisles were seated, so that the body of the building appeared one mass of human faces.

The gallery was occupied as the auditorium, and, like every other part was crowded.

On the stand, in front of the organ, were Presidents Brigham Young, George A. Smith and Daniel H. Wells, most of the Twelve Apostles, and a number of other leading Elders.

In front, on a large platform, was Professor C. J. Thomas, the conductor of the Jubilee, and his orchestra, and immediately behind him were the adult and juvenile choirs, numbering between two and three hundred persons.

Elder George Q. Cannon, general superintendent of the Sunday School Union, George Goddard, his assistant, J. B. Maiben, the secretary and the executive committee were also in that vicinity, directing and managing the arrangements.

* * * * *

At twenty-five minutes to twelve the Ogden brass band played a selection from "Tancredi," giving evidence of splendid training. * * *

The opening hymn—"O Lord, accept our Jubilee," was then sung by the assembled thousands of children, and as their mingled voices swelled with the rising notes, or fell to gentler cadences with the lower tones, the effect was complete, and if there be a soul who could witness such a scene and listen to sounds so heavenly unmoved, he must indeed be dead to the finer vibrations of feeling of the heart, incapable of appreciating the sources of more refined enjoyment.

Prayer was offered by Elder Orson Pratt.

The adult and juvenile choirs and the whole of the children throughout acquitted themselves splendidly, each piece in the program being excellently sung, showing that those who had performed the labor of training them for the occasion had not been idle. The accompaniment on the grand organ by Brother Joseph J. Daynes, was as good as could be desired, as were also his solo performances on the same instrument. Sister E. F. Thomas sang with great sweetness, "Standard of Zion" and "Hark! Listen to the Music!" of the words of which latter she is the author. The performances of the orchestral band were really fine, and would have done credit on any occasion; in fact the great Jubilee was a great success even beyond anticipation.

After the opening piece of the second part was sung, President Brigham Young delivered a short but most eloquent, impressive and instructive address, principally directed to the children, in which he contrasted their condition with that of their fathers and their mothers twenty-seven years ago, traced the providence of God as being over the Saints, enabling them to attain their present desirable condition of comparative prosperity, and exhorted all to be true to the principles for which their parents had suffered and which some of whom had sustained at the sacrifice of everything earthly, their lives included.

After the singing of another piece, President George A. Smith also spoke in the same encouraging and edifying manner; afterwards Elder George Q. Cannon, general superintendent of the Sunday School Union, also delivered a suitable address.

The singing exercises concluded with, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," etc., in which the whole assemblage, including spectators, joined, making the sound like the "rushing of many waters."

The benediction was pronounced by President George A. Smith.

Before the children left the Tabernacle about 10,000 buns were distributed among them.

It is estimated that there must have been about fourteen thousand people in the building, while many stood on the outside, around the entrances, unable to gain admittance.

Everybody has been lavish in deserved praise of Brother C. J. Thomas, the able conductor of the Jubilee, who acquitted himself to the entire satisfaction of everybody concerned, and the performance of yesterday indicated how incessantly he must have labored to produce such gratifying results.

The labors of the officers of the Deseret Sunday School Union and the executive committee of the Jubilee have also been indefatigable. The officers are George Q. Cannon, general superintendent, George Goddard, assistant general superintendent, John B. Maiben, secretary and William McLachlan, treasurer.

The following are the names of the gentlemen and ladies composing the executive committee: George Goddard, J. B. Maiben, William McLachlan, George Reynolds, Robert Campbell, S. L. Evans, H. P. Richards, H. G. Park, William Asper, Rodney Badger, George H. Taylor, Richard Ballantyne, David John, William Paxman, Nathan T. Porter, Elizabeth Goddard, Wilmarth East, Anne Cross, Margaret Young, Mary Paul, Eliza J. Brooks, Agnes S. Park and Elizabeth F. Thomas.

The decorations were made under the directions of W. V. Morris & Son; the festooning under the direction of C. F. Williams; the artificial flowers under the direction of Sister Anne Cross; and the floral decoration department was managed by John Reading. The furniture was in care of H. Dinwoodey. The upholstering department was directed by Soren P. Neve; and all needed alterations, etc., were superintended by Henry Grow.

Besides the aforementioned parties a large number of gentlemen and ladies were exceedingly active in their labors, giving most hearty assistance in the good work.

The following were appointed a committee on subscriptions: Bishop Thomas Taylor, Lewis S. Hills, James P. Freeze, Theodore McKean, Bishop E. D. Woolley, Thomas Jennings and James T. Little.

The grand Sunday School Jubilee is a memorable affair, and took place on the anniversary of a memorable day. * * * *

Such affairs are calculated to give an impetus to the grand movement whose object is the proper culture and training of the rising generation, that they may develop and progress in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, and there are blessings in store for all who labor diligently, devotedly and disinterestedly in a work of such magnitude and nobility.

It may be here added that the songs sung upon this occasion were selected from poetical contributions sent to the Union in response to a call for such compositions as would be suited for the purpose. To Professors Charles J. Thomas, Ebenezer Beesley, and Jos. J. Daynes was assigned the work of composing music for the songs chosen.

The names of those composing other committees appointed to assist in preparing for the Jubilee are: On decoration—Samuel L. Evans, William Eddington, Henry Grow, Henry Maiben, George M. Ottinger, William V. Morris, Soren P. Neve, Peter Reid, James Evans, Henry Dinwoodey, J. Hardman, C. Davey, William C. Morris, Martin Lenzi, Dan Weggeland, John Reading, H. G. Park, C. F. Williams, F. W. Schoenfeldt, Elizabeth Goddard, Eliza J. Brooks, Sister Hardy, Mary Paul, Margaret Young, Anne Cross, Wilmarth East, Elizabeth F. Thomas; on platform—William Asper, Henry Grow, James Leatham, C. J. Thomas, C. M. Donelson, J. K. Hall, George H. Taylor, A. M. Mortimer, Thomas Latimer, William McLachlan, Peter Reid; on finance—George Reynolds George C. Lambert, H. P. Richards, Wm. McLachlan; on refreshments—George Goddard, Henry Wallace, J. Gronlund, Samuel L. Evans, George H. Taylor; on program—George Q. Cannon, George Goddard, C. J. Thomas. Others who rendered assistance were—James Dwyer, H. J. Campbell, W. J. Hooper, Thomas Harris, Henry W. Tovey, James Currie, Joseph Walker, Robert Irvine, H. B. Folsom, H. Schofield and John Q. Cannon.

UNIFORMITY IN SCHOOL GOVERNMENT.

From reports received from the schools, and through personal visits, the Union officers found that there was a lack of uniformity in the conducting of the different Sunday Schools. With a view to overcome this and to improve their general discipline a code of rules for the guidance of Sunday Schools was prepared and issued in printed form and furnished to each school in Zion.

This important move by the Deseret Sunday School Union Board was made in the year 1876. As stated in the circular issued in connection with the rules, they were suggested to the Sunday Schools "with a view to secure uniformity in their government as far as practicable." The adoption of these rules and of other suggestions were urged upon the various Sunday Schools of Zion by circular letters, at general meetings of the Deseret Sunday School Union held at the time of the annual and semi-annual conferences of the Church and by personal visits of the Union officers. As a result of these efforts great improvement in discipline and efficiency has been wrought in all schools where attention has been paid to the suggestions and instructions given. A copy of these rules is here reproduced, with such additions and alterations as have been subsequently made.

RULES FOR THE GUIDANCE OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

1. Every school should be as fully organized as possible. A complete organization consists of a superintendent, first and second assistant superintendents, secretary, librarian, treasurer, assistant secretary, assistant librarian and sufficient teachers.

2. The superintendent and his assistants should see that all rules adopted for the school be strictly observed by the whole school, not forgetting to set a good example.

3. The secretary should keep a teachers' roll; and also take minutes of each school session, and the following Sunday morning, after calling the teachers' roll, read them in a clear, audible voice, for the acceptance of the school by vote. These minutes should be recorded in a suitable book, called the "Sunday School Record of — Ward." He should also be prepared, when required, to promptly make out a correct statistical report, which, after being examined and approved by the superintendent, should be sent to the stake superintendent, and a copy kept on file. The secretary and his or her assistant should be good penmen, and take pleasure in keeping the record and reports neat, clean and ready for reference.

4. The librarian should have charge of all the books, cards, etc., preserve them in as good order as possible, and keep a correct register of all books loaned and returned.

5. The treasurer should keep a careful account of all funds received and expended for the school, and only disburse the same on orders from the secretary, which he should preserve as vouchers, when his accounts are audited.

6. Assistant officers should qualify themselves, and be ready to properly attend to the duties of their offices whenever needed.

7. The name and attendance of every pupil should be kept in a class register.

8. Officers, teachers and pupils should be punctual and regular in their attendance.

9. The school should be graded as far as practicable, and every pupil placed under a suitable teacher, and not allowed to change from one class to another without permission.

10. The school should be punctually opened by singing and prayer.

11. All male members of the school should strictly observe due respect on entering by uncovering the head, and on leaving, should keep the head uncovered until they reach the door.

12. No loud talking, or playing, or running in and out should be allowed during school hours.

13. Reading should be confined as much as possible to Church works, such as the Old and New Testaments, Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants, Catechism, Sunday School Union Readers, Cards, etc.

14. Children should be encouraged to learn portions of the Scriptures, Articles of Faith, Catechism, etc.

15. Reading exercises should be conducted with as little noise as possible, by each scholar reading, and answering questions, so as not to be heard by other classes.

16. The smallest children, where suitable teachers can be obtained, should be taught orally, and, if possible, in a separate room.

17. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper should be administered in the school, according to special counsel of the First Presidency.

18. The exercises should be made varied and interesting, with singing, instrumental music, brief addresses, asking questions, recitations, etc.

19. Those who address the School should use simple, easy language, and be brief, interesting and impressive, and always speak loud enough for every child to hear what is said.

20. The entire school should be encouraged to join with the choir in the singing.

21. After the reading exercises are over, the books used by each class, should be kept together by a strap and buckle, with the number of the class marked on the strap.

22. Children should always leave the school in an orderly manner, and not be allowed to leave their places until after the benediction.

23. Quarterly reviews of the school should be held, in order that the parents may see the progress of their children.

THE SACRAMENT OF THE LORD'S SUPPER IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

In the year 1877, by direction of the First Presidency of the Church, a new feature of much importance was introduced into the services of the Sunday Schools of the Saints—that of administering the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper to the children. The propriety of introducing such a practice had been sensed for some time by active school workers, and they were gratified when it was directed by the presiding Church authorities that the Sacrament should be administered in the Sunday Schools of Zion by the ward Bishops or under their supervision. All children under the age of eight years, and those over that age, who have been baptized into the Church, are privileged to partake of the Sacrament. The introduction of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper into the Sunday School service has resulted in good. The partaking of the sacred emblems, the instructions given concerning their purport, together with the singing of suitable hymns during their administration, serve to give the children a better understanding of the divine mission of the Savior; and they are thereby constantly reminded of the necessity of reverencing His name and obeying His laws.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF MUSICAL TALENT.

What the Union has done to develop musical talent in the midst of the Saints may be regarded with pleasant satisfaction. Its officers have ever recognized the elevating influence of the divine art, and especially the value of good singing in the Sunday School and in places of worship generally. To encourage musical talent among the youth of Israel the Union has adopted various means. The holding of annual jubilees or musical festivals has already been mentioned. Congregational singing has been constantly advocated, and the necessity of good music in the Sunday School has been urged repeatedly. From time to time classes have been formed for the purpose of training children to sing, with the view of having those thus trained take the lead in the singing exercises of the schools to which they belonged.

In August, 1875, the Deseret Sunday School Musical Union was organized as an auxiliary to the general Union, for the purpose of advancing the cause of music in the Sunday Schools. It was an organization of short duration, its members however voluntarily tendered their services toward helping the Sunday School cause. Among those belonging to the Musical Union and others of the musical profession who deserve mention for the valuable services rendered to the Deseret Sunday School Union are: David O. Calder, Charles J. Thomas, Ebenezer Beesley, Adam C. Smyth, John S. Lewis, Thomas C. Griggs, George Careless, Thomas McIntyre, Joseph J. Daynes, and Evan Stephens.

The last named did much towards securing better singing in the Sunday Schools of the Salt Lake Stake by conducting singing classes composed of pupils selected from the schools of Salt Lake City and vicinity. Musicians in other Stakes and settlements have also lent their aid for a similar purpose in their respective localities, and it is proper to recognize their efforts as being of great assistance in the advancement of music in our Sunday Schools.

In 1881, through the suggestion and encouragement of the Union, a number of fife and drum bands were organized in connection with the Sunday Schools in various wards and settlements. Music for them was specially arranged and printed by the Union. At a later date the Deseret Sunday School Union Brass Band was organized.

While none of these musical organizations have been perpetuated they served to awaken interest in the divine art among the young people of the community, and were productive of good.

In 1883 the Union offered several hundred dollars in prizes for original poems and musical compositions suitable for use in Sunday Schools. In response to this offer a collection of songs and anthems set to music were received. These songs with others already in hand, and which had been published on cards and in pamphlet form were compiled with some few additional selections into a book and published especially for the Sunday Schools of Zion. This work was one that was greatly needed, and the several large additions of it which have been issued are evidences of its usefulness and popularity. An idea of the extensive use made of this collection of songs may be gained from the fact that since January, 1884, 35,000 copies of the songs set to music and 60,000 copies of the songs without the music have been issued.

MISSIONARY WORK.

The entire labors of the Union officers might be regarded as missionary work. Since the organization of the Union its officers have served without monetary compensation. They have accepted their calling as a mission and carefully performed their many arduous duties as a labor of love. But the missionary work now especially referred to is that performed among the Sunday Schools of Zion under the direction of the Union Board. From the early years of the existence of the Union its officers have been diligent in visiting the Sunday Schools for the purpose of rendering them assistance by suggestions, counsel and encouragement. In order that none of the schools in the settlements of the Saints might be neglected, the brethren of the Sunday School Union Board have at times taken extended trips to distant parts of the country solely for the purpose of meeting with and assisting the schools in those places.

In the latter part of 1878, Elders Samuel L. Evans, William Willes, Frederick A. Mitchell, Stephen R. Marks, John C. Cutler and Levi W. Richards were appointed, with the approval of the general Church authorities, as missionaries, to assist the Union officers in visiting among the Sunday Schools. The first two brethren named were appointed as missionaries at large, and the others were assigned to labor in the Salt Lake Stake of Zion. In May, 1881, John Alford was appointed to succeed Elder Mitchell as a Sunday School missionary, the latter having been called to be a Sunday School superintendent.

On September 19, 1890, Elder William Willes, owing to declining health was honorably released from his position as a Sunday School Union missionary. Elder Willes had been a diligent Sunday School worker for years previous to receiving his call as a missionary in the cause. The others called at the same time as missionaries under the direction of the Union Board, with the exception of those who were members of the board, had previously been assigned to labor under the direction of the Sunday School superintendency of the Salt Lake Stake, in which stake, it will be remembered, they were originally called to labor.

In January, 1892, forty-one missionaries were called from different stakes to labor for a short period under the direction of the Union Board. They were sent to the several stakes of Zion, with instructions to continue their labors until they had visited every ward in the stake assigned them. They were to hold meetings, in the interest of Sunday School work, to encourage those engaged in the work, and seek to arouse renewed interest in the cause generally.

Later that same year—in August—a number of special Sunday School missionaries were called to a similar work. Their names were: N. T. Porter, of Centerville, Davis Stake; S. S. Jones, and James Hardy of Provo, Utah Stake; William Paxman of Nephi, Juab Stake; William H. Wright, of Ogden, and Charles Wright, of Plain City, Weber Stake. Again that same year seventy-two more missionaries were called to the same work.

In connection with the Brigham Young Academy at Provo, a Sunday School normal training class was organized in November, 1892. It was taught by the faculty of that institution under the direction of the Deseret Sunday School Union Board. The Board also contributed means for carrying on the work. In January, 1893, one hundred Sunday School workers, from Salt Lake, Utah, Davis, Juab and other Stakes, were called to attend this class, for the purpose of receiving the training there given, and thus qualify themselves for more efficient service in the schools from which they were called. In the latter part of the same year forty-eight more Sunday School workers were called to take a course of the same character in the same institution, for a similar object. The call of the brethren and sisters to this work was made with the sanction and approval of the Church authorities, and was regarded by them in the same light as a call to perform missionary work abroad, and those who responded received due acknowledgement as having performed regular missionary labor.

Another effective plan adopted by the Union Board to raise the standard of efficiency of Sunday School workers was the establishment of model Sunday Schools. On November 4, 1894, a model school was organized in Salt Lake City, under the direction of Prof. Willard Done, and one under the direction of Prof. Benjamin Cluff, Jr., at Provo; a few weeks later one was established at Ogden, under the direction of Prof. L. F. Moench. The prominent educators who conducted these schools gratuitously contributed their services, and labored under appointment of the Union Board. These Model Sunday Schools were held each Sabbath morning for a term of weeks during the winter season. Sunday School workers from the schools of the respective stakes in which these model schools were held were called to attend them, and received practical instruction in the art of conducting a Sunday School in all its branches.

INAUGURATION OF "NICKEL DAY."

The desire of its officers has ever been that the Union should not become a burden upon the people nor the Church, and with this desire in view they have sought to meet all expenses, incurred in its maintenance by calling upon them as little as possible for assistance.

For many years the only means the Union had with which to carry on its work were derived from the proceeds of jubilees, concerts, excursions, etc., and from the sale of its publications. Previous to the year 1891 only two general calls upon the Sunday Schools for assistance were made by the Union, one was for funds with which to publish a catechism for use among the native Saints of the Hawaiian Islands.

The idea of giving the members of all the Sunday Schools throughout Zion the privilege of contributing five cents annually towards the support of the Union was first suggested in July, 1891. Later in the same year it was decided to assign the first Sunday in September* as "Nickel Day" in all the Sunday Schools of the Church, and to invite the members to make a voluntary contribution of five cents, or more, for the benefit of the Union and the stake Sunday School organizations—the latter to receive twenty per cent. of the amount collected in the schools of their respective stakes for their general expenses. Accordingly circulars explaining this proposition were sent to all the schools of the Union. The plan met with general approval, and "Nickel Day," has become an established institution throughout the Sunday Schools of the stakes of Zion and the United States missions. The same day is likewise assigned for receiving contributions of relative value in the Latter-day Saints Sunday Schools in foreign countries. This annual collection has been a source of revenue which is of much assistance to the Union, and at the same time it is not burdensome to the schools.

Considerable of the fund collected is used for procuring books, charts, etc., for gratuitous distribution among the schools of Zion and in the Latter-day Saints missions abroad, so that what the pupils contribute to the Union is largely returned to them in publications for their use and benefit.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CHILDREN AT THE SALT LAKE TEMPLE.

A very pleasing event worthy of record in connection with Sunday School work, is that of the visit of the Sunday School children to the Salt Lake Temple during the period of its dedicatory services. As it fell to the lot of the Union Board under the direction of the

*The date was afterwards changed to the last Sunday in October.

Church authorities to make all necessary arrangements for it, this visit may very properly be mentioned in connection with the labors of that body.

Friday and Saturday, April 21st and 22nd, 1893, were assigned by the Presidency of the Church for the Sunday School children to visit the Temple, and participate in suitable services to be held therein. An invitation to attend these services was extended to all children under the age of sixteen years who were enrolled in the Sunday Schools of the Saints. Reduced rates on the railways were secured for the occasion, and a large number of children from the settlements adjacent to Salt Lake City and from other places on the railway lines came to visit the Temple on the dates named. Five meetings were held with the children in the Temple, and it was estimated that there were thirteen thousand of them entered the building during the two days. The children were first permitted to pass through the various apartments of the sacred edifice from the basement to the upper floor. Here, in the assembly room, services were held, consisting of congregational singing, prayer, and rendering the "Hosanna" shout. The First Presidency, the Apostles and the Superintendency of the Deseret Sunday School Union were introduced to the children and spoke to them upon appropriate topics. The services were closed with singing and prayer. The youthful visitors were very orderly and attentive while in the Temple; and no doubt were favorably and lastingly impressed with what they saw and heard.

STAKE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCES.

The proposition to hold Sunday School Conferences annually in each Stake of Zion first received consideration by the Union Board in June, 1893. The Presidency of the Church expressed their approval of the idea and directed that the practice be adopted.

The first of these Sunday School Conferences was held in the Sevier Stake of Zion, November 4th and 5th, 1893. It was attended by Elders George Goddard and Thomas C. Griggs, as representatives of the Deseret Sunday School Union Board. Since then these conferences have been continued and have become an established institution connected with the Sunday School work. Almost invariably they are attended by members of the Union Board, one object in holding them being to afford the general officers an opportunity to learn of the condition and progress of the various schools in the several stakes of Zion.

In these meetings reports are made by the officers of the respective schools within the stake; exhibitions of the methods of conducting class exercises are presented; questions regarding Sunday School matters are explained; and remarks of encouragement and instruction are given.

HUMANE DAY.

At a meeting of the Deseret Sunday School Union Board held January 7, 1897, it was decided to recommend that the last Sunday in February each year be observed as "Humane Day," in all the Sunday Schools of the Saints. An explanation of this feature, and the object sought by its introduction, are set forth by General Superintendent George Q. Cannon in the Juvenile Instructor of January 15, 1897, as follows:

The Deseret Sunday School Union Board have discussed the propriety of doing something in the direction of impressing the children with lessons concerning the proper treatment of animals, and have appointed Sunday, February 28, as Humane Day. In appointing this as Humane Day it is the design to have the usual services and lessons taken up on that day in the Sunday School, in their regular order; but that in addition to these, addresses be given by persons selected for the purpose, which will set forth in as forcible a manner as possible the propriety of being kind and considerate to the animal creation, especially those domestic animals with which children are most closely brought in contact. The object of these addresses will be to teach the children kindness, mercy, forbearance and love toward all the living creations of God.

SPECIAL SUNDAY SCHOOLS ESTABLISHED BY THE UNION.

While seeking to promote the spiritual welfare of the youth of Zion generally, the Union officers have not been unmindful of the needs of the less favored classes in the community.

It was observed that in the School for Deaf-Mutes, conducted in connection with the Deseret University, there were a number of children of Latter-day Saints who might be benefitted by receiving religious instruction such as is imparted in the Sunday Schools of the Church. In April, 1891, Elder Thomas C. Griggs of the Union Board, was appointed to make some investigations regarding the practicability of organizing a Sunday School with such members of the Deaf-Mute School as were willing to attend. Owing to the lateness of the season—the time for closing the day school for the summer being near at hand—the investigation was postponed for a time. The next season, when the School for Deaf-Mutes opened, the consent of the board of regents of the University and of the parents of the children were obtained, and a Sunday School was organized January 10, 1892, with a membership of eleven boys and sixteen girls. The first place of meeting was in the Nineteenth Ward Relief Society building. The school was afterwards moved to the Latter-day Saints' College building, on First North Street, Salt Lake City. Elder Charles H. Barrell was appointed superintendent and Elder Laron Pratt assistant. The Sunday School was conducted by these officers during the school term each year until the Deaf-Mute Institute was removed to Ogden. In October, 1896, the school was started again in the school for the Deaf-Mutes and the Blind at that place. Elder Edwin A. Stratford was appointed superintendent and Elder Pratt continued as an assistant.

During this same month—October, 1896—members of the Union Board, with the consent of the board of trustees of the now newly-named Utah State School for the Deaf-Mutes and the Blind, organized a class for the blind in connection with the Deaf-Mute Sunday School. This class met with the deaf-mutes.

In 1888, while serving a term of imprisonment for conscience sake in the Utah penitentiary, General Superintendent George Q. Cannon found opportunity to establish a Sunday School there, which he did by permission of the warden. While he remained there he took charge of the organization. The Union Board presented this school with an organ to aid in its musical exercises.

Other special Sunday Schools that have been established in the community are those organized for the education of the Lamanites, or Indians. One such school is situated in the Indian town of Washakie, in the Oneida Stake, and one in Indianola, Sanpete Stake, mention of which will be found in the history of individual schools in another part of this volume.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Of recent years one of the most important moves upon the part of the Union Board was that of holding a convention of the Sunday School workers of Zion.

At the Deseret Sunday School Union semi-annual conference held October 9, 1898, it was proposed that such a gathering be called for the purpose of "infusing new life into every department of our Sunday Schools." The suggestion of such a project is evidence of the solicitude and vigilance of the Union Board in applying every available means for the further advancement of the great work under their supervision. The labor of preparing for the proposed convention was at once energetically prosecuted, and in anticipation of the coming important event much enthusiasm was aroused within the ranks of Sunday School workers. Committees were appointed to make all necessary preparations for the convention; the delegates chosen from the various stakes were cordially received on their arrival; and during their sojourn in Salt Lake City, where the convention was held, they were comfortably provided for, and everything necessary was done to make their visit pleasant as well as profitable. On the Sunday just previous to the day of opening the convention the visiting delegates were escorted by local Sunday School workers to the various Sunday Schools of Salt Lake City and vicinity, where they had the privilege of witnessing the morning's exercises; and in the evening they were given the opportunity of addressing the meetings of the Saints in those wards upon Sunday School topics.

This convention—the first of the kind in the history of the Latter-day Saints—was held in the Assembly Hall on November 28 and 29, 1898, General Superintendent George Q. Cannon presiding. Three sessions were held each day. Every Stake of Zion was represented at these meetings by a delegation of Sunday School workers. An idea of the nature of the exercises of the convention may be gained from the program carried out, which was as follows:

PUBLICATIONS OF THE UNION.

The published works of the Union have been without question one of its most potent means for advancing the Sunday School cause. The number of valuable works prepared and issued under the supervision of the Union Board have proven to be of great assistance to Sunday School workers.

The publications issued by the Union, aside from roll books, class registers, report blanks, etc., are herewith named:

“Original Songs and Music,” containing the songs set to music which were rendered at the grand celebration of July 24, 1874. It appeared in pamphlet form, and three editions were printed, aggregating 10,500 copies.

Music cards, each containing two songs set to music, were issued periodically, commencing in March, 1877, numbered from one to twenty-four. Five thousand copies of each were printed as a first edition, and some were republished—making a total of over 120,000.

“First Book for our Little Friends,” was first issued in June, 1879. It was published to supply the children of the Latter-day Saints with desirable and appropriate reading, and to supply a much-needed text book for Sunday School pupils not far enough advanced to read and study the Holy Scriptures. Four editions of the book have been printed, aggregating 20,000 copies.

“Second Book for our Little Friends,” was prepared for readers a little in advance of those using the First Book. It was first issued in April, 1880. Two editions were published—in all 12,000 copies.

“Joseph the Prophet,” containing questions and answers on the life and mission of Joseph Smith, was first published in June, 1882. An edition of 6,000 copies was printed.

“Ke Alakai” is a translation of Jaques’ “Catechism for Children,” published in the Hawaiian language. It was issued especially for the benefit of the children of the Latter-day Saints who are natives of the Hawaiian Islands. An edition of 2,000 copies was printed.

“Deseret Sunday School Union Music Book.” This work was issued to supply an urgent demand for a collection of songs set to music suitable for use in Sunday Schools. The music cards previously issued were somewhat of an experiment, but they served to awaken a desire for a more extended collection. The Music Book contained one hundred pages and eighty-eight songs. It first appeared in January, 1884. Four editions were printed, aggregating 20,000 copies.

"Deseret Sunday School Song Book," is an enlarged edition of the Music Book described above, and was first issued in 1891. It contains most of the songs that appeared on the Music Cards and in the Music Book, as well as quite a number of additional pieces, making a work of 200 pages. Three editions of this book in its enlarged form have been printed, making a total of 15,000 copies.

"Childrens' Sunday School Hymn Book" contains the words of the songs in the Deseret Sunday School Music Book, those on the Music Cards, and those in the Jubilee Song Book. The first edition was published in 1888. Three more editions in a revised form have been published. In all 60,000 copies have been printed.

"Guide for the Officers and Teachers of Sunday Schools." The purpose of this work is made clear by the title. It contains suggestions in regard to grading the Sunday School, what subjects should be taught in each grade, the text books and books of reference to be used, conditions of promotion, etc. It is a pamphlet of twenty-four pages, printed in 1892. An edition of 3,000 copies was issued.

"Sunday School Work." A report of a series of lectures on the above subject delivered by Professor Karl G. Maeser, in the Salt Lake Assembly Hall, June 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 1892. An edition of 5,000 copies was printed.

"Sunday School Treatise." This work is of the same character as the Sunday School Guide, previously issued, though more comprehensive, and takes the place of that little work. It treats fully upon all subjects connected with Sunday School discipline. The first edition was published in 1896. Two editions have been printed aggregating 10,000 copies.

"Deseret Sunday School Union Leaflets" contain prepared Scriptural and historical lessons arranged in successive order and adapted for Sunday School class work. They are issued in sheet form, each leaflet containing one lesson. One hundred and seventy-two numbers have been issued since June, 1889—the date of the first publication. Over two and a half millions of copies have already been printed, and the publication of them is being continued.

"Book of Mormon Chart," Part I, contains twelve large lithographed pictures in colors, illustrative of the Book of Mormon narrative. These charts were prepared at considerable labor and expense, costing over $2,000 for the work. To procure designs for the pictures, prizes to the amount of $240 were offered to competing artists and awarded to those whose productions were accepted. The chart was published in 1892, and 1,000 copies were printed.

"Book of Mormon Chart," Part II, is similar in size and style to Part I, and is a continuation of the same narrative. It was issued in 1897, 1000 copies being printed.

"Book of Mormon Chart Cards," Parts I and II, contain miniature copies of the pictures on the charts, together with explanations of the scenes represented. Of these cards 20,000 sets of Part I and the same number of Part II were printed.

"Bible Charts." In order to obtain suitable charts illustrative of Bible scenes, selections were made from pictures issued by eastern publishers. To bring them more in conformity with the ideas of the Latter-day Saints and make them better adapted for Sunday School use, the General Board had these charts altered both in subject and text. The first set of Bible Charts was published in 1895. An edition of 500 copies was issued. Four new sets of Bible pictures have since been prepared and similar editions published. In connection with them, Bible Chart Instructors, especially prepared under the direction of the Union Board, have also been issued.

"Proceedings of the First Sunday School Convention of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints." This pamphlet contains a full verbatim report of that assembly. It was published in the early part of 1899, an edition of 6,000 copies being printed.

Besides the works named above a large number of catechism cards and cards containing the Articles of Faith of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, have been published by the Union, and have received a wide circulation.

The Juvenile Instructor. Although this magazine is not published by the Union, it has since the beginning been issued in the interest of Sunday School work, and the education and elevation of the youth generally, and is recognized as the official organ of the Deseret Sunday School Union. Besides serving as a medium for conveying the instructions and suggestions of the Union officers to the Sunday Schools, the Juvenile Instructor has been of much assistance to teachers and pupils, containing as it does wholesome literature for the youth of Zion, as well as numerous helps to Sunday School workers in the way of catechisms suited to different grades.

of pupils, and other prepared lessons and supplementary readings adapted to class use.

SUNDAY SCHOOL STATISTICS.

No general attempt was made to collect statistical information concerning the Sunday Schools of the Latter-day Saints until the year 1872. Since that time efforts have been made each year to secure full and correct reports from all schools embraced in the Deseret Sunday School Union. Roll books for keeping the names of Sunday School members and a record of their attendance have been published, and blank forms for statistical reports have been forwarded annually to each school for the purpose of procuring such information as was considered of importance and interest. The blank forms used at first merely called for a report of statistical information regarding the number of officers, teachers and pupils enrolled, the number of classes, the number of books in library, the funds received and disbursed, and the character of prizes awarded to pupils. In later years more elaborate blank forms were prepared, and when properly filled up they not only give a statistical report of a school, but furnish historical information respecting it, and a statement of its general condition. These reports have enabled the general officers of the Union to observe the condition, note the progress, and learn of the needs of the schools.

The following tables of statistics will serve to indicate the extent of the Sunday School work in 1872, and its present magnitude. The summary which appears on page 48 will also show its numerical growth each year from 1872 to 1899. Owing to the fact that many of the schools were unprepared at the time to furnish statistical information, the report of September 15, 1872, is incomplete in some of its details.

FINANCES.

As has already been explained, the Union has been sustained financially, since, the year 1891, by what is known as the "Nickel Contribution"—a fund derived from the annual collection of five cents or an equivalent amount from the pupils of the various Sunday Schools. A statement of the amount derived each year from this source will be of interest, and is herewith given:

OFFICERS OF THE DESERET SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.

When the Union was organized, in June, 1867, as has already been stated, Apostle George Q. Cannon was chosen as its president. He has stood at the head of the organization ever since that time, though subsequently recognized by the title of general superintendent instead of president. At the same time, Elder Edward L. Sloan was chosen as secretary; Elders George Goddard and Robert L. Campbell, recording secretaries; Apostles Brigham Young, Jr., Albert Carrington and George A. Smith, committee on books for Sunday Schools.

In 1872 a change of some of the officers was made. George

* In 1891 the total amount collected from the schools was paid into the hands of the general treasurer, but since that year twenty per cent has, by direction of the General Board, been retained by the stake officers to meet the legitimate stake Sunday School expenses.

Goddard was chosen as an assistant to General Superintendent George Q. Cannon; John B. Maiben was chosen general secretary and William McLachlan general treasurer. Elder Goddard held the office of first assistant general superintendent until his death, January 12, 1899.

In August, 1875, Elder Maiben, having been called to be bishop at Manti, Sanpete County, was honorably released from the office of general secretary and Elder McLachlan was appointed his successor. He acted as secretary and treasurer for a few months, when he was called on a mission to New Zealand. The vacancies thus caused were filled by the appointment, in December, 1875, of Elder Levi W. Richards as general secretary, and of Elder George Reynolds, in February, 1876, as general treasurer of the Union. Elder Reynolds had previously been acting as auditor and treasurer pro tem. At the time of Elder Richards' appointment as secretary, Elder Thomas Champneys was appointed assistant secretary; and after the removal of the latter to Ogden John C. Cutler was assigned to that position as well as to that of assistant treasurer.

On the 18th of September, 1878, a standing committee on finance and one on publication were appointed to labor in connection with and under the direction of the general superintendency. Those composing the finance committee were Elders John C. Cutler, Samuel L. Evans and George H. Taylor. The publication committee was composed of Elders George Reynolds, Thomas C. Griggs, Levi W. Richards, Louisa Lula Greene Richards and George C. Lambert. Upon the decease of Elder Evans of the finance committee, in May, 1881, Thomas E. Taylor was appointed to succeed him, and upon the departure of Elder Lambert on a mission to Europe, in November, 1882, Abraham H. Cannon succeeded him as a member of the publication committee. Elder Cannon died, July 19, 1896.

In June, 1883, the organization of the general superintendency of the Union was made complete by the appointment of Elder John Morgan as second assistant to Superintendent George Q. Cannon.

In January, 1887, Elders Karl G. Maeser, Joseph W. Summerhays and Charles F. Wilcox were called to the assistance of the Union officers.

In April, 1887, Elder George H. Taylor was honorably released from his position as a member of the finance committee on account of other public duties.

In April, 1889, the Executive Board of the Deseret Sunday School Union was formed, consisting of the general officers and such of the standing committees as were in a position to continue their labors with the Union. Previous to that time the executive power rested with the general officers alone, but owing to the increase of labors demanded of them by reason of the growth of the work, and the frequent absence of the general superintendent on account of his many other duties, this strengthening of the Executive Board was considered advisable. The names of those composing the Board at this time were: George Q. Cannon, George Goddard, John Morgan, George Reynolds, Levi W. Richards, John C. Cutler, Thomas C. Griggs, Abraham H. Cannon, and Joseph W. Summerhays.

At the close of the year 1890, Elder Levi W. Richards, owing to other public duties requiring his attention, and the increase labors devolving upon the secretary of the Union, was honorably released from the secretaryship. For more than fifteen years he had faithfully and efficiently performed the duties of this office. Elder John M. Whittaker was appointed to succeed him as secretary. In December, 1890, Elder John C. Cutler was called upon a mission to Europe, and was released from acting as a member of the Board and assistant secretary.

On April 5, 1891, Apostles F. M. Lyman and Heber J. Grant were sustained as members of the General Board; and November 30, 1892, Elder John C. Cutler, upon his return from a mission, was again added to that body. The latter was released October 3, 1897, having been chosen as counselor to the bishop of the 4th ward, Salt Lake City.

After the death of Elder John Morgan, which occurred July 14, 1894, Elder Karl G. Maeser was chosen as his successor in the superintendency.

Elder Joseph M. Tanner was chosen as a member of the General Board August 15, 1895; and December 29, 1896, Apostle George Teasdale and Elder Hugh J. Cannon were called to act in the same capacity.

In 1897, Elder Whittaker, was called upon a mission to the Eastern States, and December 1 of that year Elder George D. Pyper succeeded him as general secretary. On November 15 of this same year Elder Leo Hunsaker was appointed assistant secretary.

Other members of the General Board of the Union are: Elder Andrew Kimball, chosen and sustained at the general Sunday School conference held October 3, 1897; President Joseph F. Smith, chosen and sustained at the general Sunday School conference held April 10, 1898; and Apostle John W. Taylor, chosen and sustained at the general Sunday School conference held April 9, 1899.

The following named Elders were chosen, on the dates given, as aids to the General Board: L. John Nuttall, James W. Ure, October 3, 1897; John F. Bennett, John M. Mills, William B. Dougall, W. D. Owen, December 2, 1897; Seymour B. Young, Christian D. Fjeldsted, January 13, 1898.

The death of Elder George Goddard, January 12, 1899, left the position of first assistant general superintendent vacant.

The officers of the Union December 31, 1899, were:

In reflecting upon the Sunday School work of the Latter-day Saints, one cannot fail to be deeply impressed with the extraordinary magnitude to which it has grown. From its humble and obscure beginning it has spread forth upon all sides with accelerating speed, and developed in excellence and usefulness until it has enlisted the interest and awakened the admiration and pride of the Saints everywhere, and is recognized by all as a mighty power for good in the land, as well as a constant source of strength and support to the Church.

That the Deseret Sunday School Union has, by the blessings of the Lord, aided very materially in bringing about this desirable condition will not be denied; and what it has accomplished for the progress of the Sunday School work may be regarded with satisfaction and gratitude.

The growth of the Sunday School movement and the principal projects inaugurated by the officers of the Union for its continued development and advancement have been dwelt upon in preceding pages. It is fitting, before concluding this sketch of the general Sunday School work to acknowledge the valuable services of those who have been prominently connected with it. Too much cannot be said in commendation of the self-sacrificing devotion to the cause which these noble workers have manifested by freely contributing their time, energies and talents towards its promotion.

Among those whose efforts were exerted at an early day to establish a union of the Sunday Schools of Zion, and to promote the Sunday School cause generally, Apostle George Q. Cannon was, and has ever since been, one of the leading spirits. During the winter of 1864, at a time when the few earlier schools had mostly discontinued, he established a school in the 14th Ward, Salt Lake City. A short time later—in January, 1866—he started the publication of the Juvenile Instructor, which he designed as an educator of the youth; and through its columns he has done much to further the Sunday School movement among the Saints by the useful instructions, lessons and other helps to Sunday School workers which this periodical contains. His executive ability, his wise counsel and suggestions, together with the influence of his position in the Church, have also been a most valuable aid to the cause. Notwithstanding his many other public labors, Elder Cannon has ever found time to give attention to the duties of his office as general superintendent of the Deseret Sunday School Union—a position he has ably filled since its first organization.

Elder George Goddard was connected with the Union from the beginning until his death—first as corresponding secretary and later as first assistant general superintendent. The latter appointment he received in 1872. Elder Goddard was an indefatigable worker in the Sunday School cause, and was remarkably fitted for the position he held. His marked individuality and earnestness of character were such that they impressed themselves for good upon those about him. For many years he devoted nearly the whole of his time and energies to the duties of his calling as an officer of the Union. He traveled extensively in its interests, continuing his visits to schools of the various stakes until within a few weeks of the time of his death. He became known throughout every stake of Zion, and wherever he went he won the hearts of both young and old by his attractive manner and loving disposition. The name of Brother Goddard and the history of the Sunday School work in Zion are inseparably connected, and will ever remain so in the hearts and memories of the present generations of the Saints.

Elder John Morgan, who was chosen as Second Assistant General Superintendent of the Union in June, 1883, had been prominently identified with the interests of the Sunday School Union from the earliest years of its existence, though his long service in the mission field abroad kept him away from the body of the Church during the greater part of the time for a period of some fourteen years. Elder Morgan was an experienced educator, possessed of abundant energy and exceptional executive ability; and by his pleasant, discreet manner and humble spirit he was enabled to wield an influence for good wherever his lot was cast. His labors for the advancement of the Sunday Schools of the Saints were ever earnest and untiring, and of a highly practical nature.

After the death of Elder Morgan, Elder Karl G. Maeser was chosen as Second Assistant General Superintendent of the Union. He still holds this position, for which he is eminently qualified by education, ability, and experience. His long connection with the Brigham Young Academy, at Provo, as its principal, and his labors as general superintendent of Church schools, had already made him well known throughout the Church, and had endeared him to those of the youth of Zion who were so favored as to have attended the places of learning under his care and to have made his acquaintance. His new position did not take him into a new field, for he had been laboring for the promotion of the Sunday School movement all the time while connected with the other institutions; and his call to the superintendency only enlarged that same field of usefulness. Elder Maeser has traveled much throughout the stakes of Zion, and his wise, practical instructions to Sunday School workers have been of great value to the Sunday School cause.

Much of the detail work of the Union Board has necessarily been done by committees. On the standing committee on publication has fallen the heaviest load. The preparation of nearly all the books, charts, leaflets, cards and other works issued by the Board has devolved upon this committee. Its present chairman, Elder George Reynolds, who is also the treasurer of the Union and, with the exception of the general superintendent, the senior member of the Board, has held this position from the time the committee was first appointed. No one has worked more zealously than he for the interests of the schools. The Sunday School Leaflets have been largely written by Elder James E. Talmage, George Reynolds, Willard Done and Sister Bertha Irvine, while a number of other brethren have assisted by occasional contributions. The musical publications have been generally supervised by Elder Thomas C. Griggs, though assistance has often been generously given in the preparation and publication of musical and other works by brethren and sisters who are not members of the Board, but whose names appear in connection with their musical and poetical contributions. The services of Elder Joseph W. Summerhays are equally deserving of mention. For many years Elder Summerhays has been identified with the General Board, and, in addition to many other labors in the line of committee work, he has for years past attended mainly to the Union's business transactions with eastern publishing houses from which charts and other supplies have been obtained.

The finance committee, in early years, had considerable business to attend to, but since the inauguration of the yearly nickel fund collection its labors have been reduced to a minimum.

What has been said respecting the faithfulness and diligence of the officers of the Union already mentioned will also apply to all the members of the General Board and their aids, as well as to hundreds of Sunday School workers whose labors though of a local character, are of equal necessity and great importance.

While reference is made to the labors of present officers of the Union, the services of those who have been connected with it in the past should not be and are not forgotten nor overlooked. Especially deserving of praise are those who, in the early history of the movement, struggled with many difficulties and amid discouraging surroundings. Many of these early workers have passed away, while others have been called to other positions. To name all the veteran Sunday School workers both local and general would be impracticable at this time (the names of many of them will be found elsewhere in the history of the stake and ward Sunday School organizations); but it is considered proper to mention those who were in past years directly connected with the general officers of the Union. Among these are Elders John B. Maiben and William McLachlan, chosen as Secretary and Treasurer respectively at the reorganization of the Union in 1872. Although called shortly afterwards to other duties, they nevertheless labored efficiently and interestedly while holding the positions to which they were assigned, and both have continued as Sunday School workers ever since, though in other positions. Elders Samuel L. Evans and William Willes, who, in the year 1878, were called as Sunday School Union missionaries at large, were both zealous workers in the cause, and continued so till within a short time of their death. Elder Evans was also for a number of years an active member of the Union's standing committee on finance. Others who have been associated with the general officers of the Union in the past are Elder George H. Taylor, a member of the standing committee on finance; Elder George C. Lambert and Sister Louisa L. G. Richards, who were for years members of the standing committee on publication; Elder John C. Cutler and Abraham H. Cannon, also members of this committee and later members of the General Board. Elder Cutler was also Assistant Secretary and Assistant Treasurer of the Union for a number of years. Sister Richards was the only lady member of the standing committee of the Union. While holding this position she rendered much valuable assistance in preparing for publication some of the books and other works issued by the Union.

It is just and proper in this connection to acknowledge the active support the Sunday School Union, and the individual schools of which it is composed, have always received from the presiding authorities in the Church, both general and local. While the Sunday Schools are conducted as independent organizations, they are all under the direction and control of those who preside in the Priesthood. And while presiding authorities may not in all cases be directly engaged in the Sunday Schools, they are entitled to a share of the credit for the success that has attended the institutions, through the support they have given them, and the general direction and oversight they exercise over these as well as all other Church organizations under their jurisdiction. The First Presidency and other leading authorities of the Church have ever taken a deep interest in the Sunday Schools and have aided them by their influence, counsel and encouragement, as well as in all other ways within their power. The same may be said of stake and ward authorities generally throughout Zion; and in the Latter-day Saint missions abroad the mission presidents, the conference presidents and the traveling elders have given their influence and support to the Sunday Schools established among the scattered Saints, recognizing them as valuable institutions to aid in the spread of the Gospel.

STAKE AND WARD SUNDAY SCHOOL ORGANIZATIONS.

HOW CONSTITUTED AND CONDUCTED.

All the Sunday Schools of the Latter-day Saints are included in the organization known as the Deseret Sunday School Union, and the general supervision and management of the affairs of the Union are vested in its General Board.

The Sunday Schools in each of the stakes of Zion are under the immediate supervision of the stake Sunday School organization composed of a superintendent, first and second assistant superintendents, secretary and treasurer. In many stakes there are missionary aids who visit the Sunday Schools and labor under the direction of the stake superintendency, to whom they report their labors.

Each Sunday School, when fully organized, has a superintendent, first and second assistant superintendents, secretary, treasurer, librarian, chorister, organist and such assistant officers as may be needed. The school is graded into departments, namely: kindergarten, or infant, composed of the youngest members of the school; the primary grade, as a general rule, includes the children who have advanced from the kindergarten up to the age of eight years; the first intermediate includes children from eight to twelve years; the second intermediate, from twelve to sixteen years; preparatory theological, pupils advanced beyond the grades mentioned; and the higher theological, all pupils not embraced in other departments. But the natural ability and the advancement of the pupils are considered when a school is graded. In some schools normal classes are conducted for the training of pupils for teachers. Each department usually has several teachers, one of whom is appointed to take the lead in the department.

The hour for opening Sunday School is ten o'clock, a. m. The order adopted for the devotional exercises is as follows:—Roll call of officers and teachers; singing by the whole school; prayer; singing by the school; reading of minutes of previous session; administration of Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, under direction of the bishopric of the ward or presiding elder of the branch. While the sacred emblems are being passed to those present, appropriate remarks are made by one appointed, or suitable music, vocal or instrumental, is rendered by members of the school or by the organist. After the administration of the sacrament the several classes proceed separately with the lessons assigned for consideration.

The lessons in the various grades are intended to suit the capacities of the pupils, the aim being to cultivate their spiritual growth by inculcating the religious and moral truths of the holy scriptures—the Bible, Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants, Pearl of Great Price and other authorized Church works.

Where practicable, each class is conducted in a separate apartment, and all, with the exception of those composed of the smaller children, reassemble after the class exercises are completed. The remainder of the time is occupied in a variety of ways—by the repeating in concert of memorized scriptural passages, by short addresses from officers, teachers, or visitors, etc. The school is closed with congregational singing, and benediction, after which the members retire in an orderly manner from the building, while the organist renders a selection upon the organ.

In the following pages is given a brief sketch of each stake and ward Sunday School organization in Zion, together with the names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries of the respective organizations, so far as can be ascertained, from the date of their beginning to December, 31, 1899—the latter year being the fiftieth from the time the first Sunday School was established in the Rocky Mountain region.

ALBERTA STAKE.

Within this stake are embraced all the Latter-day Saints Sunday Schools of the district of Alberta, North-West Territory, Canada. The stake Sunday School organization of Alberta was effected at a conference held in Cardston, August 19, 1894.

The following named persons were at that time sustained as stake officers: Heber S. Allen, superintendent; Frederick W. Atkins, first assistant; William H. Steed, second assistant; David W. Rollins, secretary and treasurer. With the exception of the first assistant superintendent, the same officers continued without change until December 31, 1899—the date on which this record closes. F. W. Atkins served as first assistant until August 20, 1898, when he was succeeded by Thomas Duce. The latter was released in August, 1899, and his position remained vacant till the time of closing this record.

Thomas Duce has been a Sunday School worker for upwards of thirty years.

The five Sunday Schools described below are under the supervision of the superintendency of the Alberta stake.

ÆTNA SUNDAY SCHOOL.—This school was organized at the house of Joseph H. Ellison, on Snake Creek, May 18, 1890, and the first school session was held on the following Sunday. At the time of organization there were 6 officers and teachers and 15 pupils in the school. Its membership, December 31, 1899, was 13 officers and teachers and 94 pupils. The school convenes in the Ætna ward meetinghouse.

The names of the successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries of the school, together with the dates on which their terms of service began and ended, are:

Superintendents—George M. Hudson, from May 18, 1890, to December 17, 1893; Joseph H. Ellison, from December 17, 1893, to September 25, 1898; Daniel K. Greene, from September 25, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—John Pilling, from May 18, 1890, to December 17, 1893; John M. Dunn, from August 4, 1895, to September 15, 1898; Thomas S. Gregson, from September 25, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—George M. Hudson, from December 17, 1893, to August 4, 1895; Christian F. Jensen, Jr.;* Benjamin Matkin, from September 25, 1898, to May 28, 1899; Erastus Olsen, from May 28, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Harriet E. Pilling, from May 18, 1890, to December 17, 1893; Ada W. Pilling, from December 17, 1893, to about August, 1895; Lola L. Talbot, from August, 1895, to September 25, 1898; Alexander Gregson, from September 25, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

CARDSTON SUNDAY SCHOOL.—From June 12, 1887—the date of its organization—to the following October, the Sunday School of Cardston was held in a bowery and in tents on the pioneer lot, on Lee's Creek. It was next held in a sixteen by eighteen feet log meeting house. In 1890 a larger and better building was erected, additions to which have been made during later years, thus admitting of a thoroughly graded school being conducted within it.

The names of the successive superintendents, assistants, and secretaries of the school, together with the dates on which their terms of office began and ended, so far as obtainable, are as follows:

Superintendents—J. E. Layne, from June 12, 1887, to December 27, 1896; Robert A. Nelson, from December 27, 1896, to September 4, 1898; James P. Low, from September 4, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—E. R. Miles, from June 12, 1887, to September 26, 1888; Samuel Matkin, from September 26, 1888, to December 27, 1896; Levi Harker, from December 27, 1896, to September 4, 1898; Robert Ibey, from September 4, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—Mark Preece, from June 12, to August 23, 1887; Noah Shurtliff; Ephraim Harker;* Sylvester Low, from April, 1893, to December 27, 1896; James Anderson, from December 27, 1896, to September 4, 1898; James Evans, from September 4, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Sterling Williams, Atena Bates, Jane Bates, Lizzie Layne, Nellie Hinman, each of whom served in turn between the dates of June 12, 1887, and March 17, 1895; Hattie Stoddard, from March 17, 1895, to September 4, 1898; Minnie May, from September 4, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

At the organization of the school the total enrollment was 41; the school numbered on December 31, 1899, 25 officers and teachers and 321 pupils.

The historical report shows that Rhoda C. Hinman has been a Sunday School worker for over 45 years; Joseph M. Wight, for over 40 years; Zina Y. Card and Sylvester Low, over 30 years; and Elnora Wight for over 25 years.

EAST ÆTNA OR KIMBALL SUNDAY SCHOOL was organized January 22, 1899. It has an enrollment of 9 officers and teachers and 29 pupils. The officers of the school are: Magnus Holm, superintendent; Elias Pilling, first assistant; J. S. Dawson, second assistant; Ernest Kimball, secretary.

LEAVITT SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The organization of this school was effected June 7, 1896, but the first session was not held until July 20th of the same year. It began with 7 officers and teachers and 38 pupils. The first officers of the school were: Francis Broadbent, superintendent; Charles Quinton, first assistant; Thomas Leavitt, second assistant; Maud Broadbent, secretary. On February 12, 1899, Maud Broadbent was succeeded by Martha Quinton as secretary, and on August 29, 1899, Superintendent Francis Broadbent was succeeded by Andrew M. Spence, the latter chose the same assistants as his predecessor had. On December 31, 1899, the enrollment of the school was 13 officers and teachers and 98 pupils.

MOUNTAIN VIEW SUNDAY SCHOOL was organized and commenced April 30, 1893. Its members first met in the house of Brother Thos. Scott, about one and a half miles north of the Mountain View meeting house, in which the school is now held. It began with an enrollment of 4 officers and teachers and 19 pupils. The enrollment has since increased to 22 officers and teachers and 114 pupils. The names of its first superintendent, assistants and secretary are: Peter Allen, superintendent; Olaf L. Davidson, first assistant; James Leavitt, second assistant; Mary Davidson, secretary. The superintendency remained the same until December 29, 1895; from that date to September 27, 1896 the school was presided over by the bishopric of the ward, Bishop V. S. Stewart being superintendent, Joseph H. Gold, first assistant, and Samuel Rawlins, second assistant. September 27, 1896, the following named were chosen as officers of the school: James S. Parker, superintendent; Samuel Webster, first assistant; William Webster, second assistant. February 26, 1898, J. P. Jordan succeeded Samuel Webster as first assistant superintendent. The officers on December 31, 1899, were: James S. Parker, superintendent; J. P. Jordan, first assistant; William Webster, second assistant; Mary Davidson, secretary.

BANNOCK STAKE.

This stake of Zion is situated in Idaho, and embraces a part of Bannock County. It is of recent organization, and some of the settlements now included in it, formerly belonged to Bear Lake and Oneida stakes.

The stake Sunday School superintendency was organized August 6, 1898, with Daniel J. Lau, superintendent; Burt A. Ruud, first assistant; and T. H. Horsley, secretary. These officers still hold their respective positions. Nathan Barlow was chosen second assistant superintendent October 30, 1899, thus completing the corps of officers. There is one stake missionary, Cyrus Tolman, appointed to assist the superintendency.

Ten Sunday Schools are in this stake, the records of which are given below.

CHESTERFIELD SUNDAY SCHOOL was organized June 5, 1884, with Ira Call, superintendent; Adam Yancey, first assistant; George Williams, second assistant; Chester V. Call, secretary. At the time of organization there were twelve officers and teachers and 35 pupils. A Sabbath School was held in this ward previous to the date of organization given above. It began November 27, 1883, and was conducted in the house of Bishop J. A. Tolman. It had about 30 members. Successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries of the school from the time of organization are:

Ira Call, superintendent, from June 5, 1884, to August 23, 1891; Christian Nelson, from August 23, 1891, to July 16, 1893; Nathan Barlow, from July 16, 1893, to December 31, 1899.

Adam Yancey, 1st assistant, from June 5, 1884, to August 23, 1891; Moses Muir, from August 23, 1891, to December 31, 1899.

George Williams, second assistant, from June 5, 1884, to August 23, 1891; Nathan Barlow, from August 23, 1891, to July 16, 1893; Denmark Jensen, from July 16, 1893, to July, 1897; Anson C. Loveland, from July, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries: Chester V. Call, Hattie J. Higginson, A. P. Anderson, T. H. Barlow, Hannah Hatch, David Balfour, Amos Hatch, Benjamin D. Jensen, Ada M. Call, Alzina Thompson, May Loveland, Ada M. Millward. The periods of service of these secretaries is not obtainable, the last named, however, is the present incumbent.

The present enrollment of the school is 25 officers and teachers and 230 pupils. School is held in the Chesterfield meeting house.

The historical report shows that Mary E. Parker, and Alice M. Card have each been Sunday School workers for over 25 years.

CLEVELAND SUNDAY SCHOOL was organized in the year 1884, with Ira Ames superintendent. The place of holding school is in the Cleveland meeting house. The present enrollment is 15 officers and teachers and 108 pupils.

Successive superintendents, assistants, and secretaries of the school are as follows:

Superintendents—Ira Ames, from 1884, to November 18, 1894; James Ransom from November 18, 1894, to May 7, 1899; Henry Larsen, from May 7, 1899, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—James Christensen, from 1889 to 1892; Hyrum Ransom, from October 2, 1892, to November 25, 1893; Chrest Jensen, from May 13, to November 18, 1894; George Kirkham, from November 25, 1894, to October 11, 1896; Ole Hansen, from October 11, 1896, to 1898; Hyrum Ransom, from July 31, to December 4, 1898; Thomas Smith, from December 4, 1898, to August 13, 1899; Arnold Nielson, from August 13, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—James Larsen, from 1885 to 1892; Hyrum Ransom, a short term during the year 1892; William M. Austin, from October 2, 1892, to March 18, 1894; Ole Hanson, from November 25, 1894, to October 11, 1896; Hyrum Ransom, from October 11, 1896, to 1898; Thomas Smith, from July 31, to December 4, 1898; Mary Hansen, from December 4, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Chrest Jensen, from 1885 to 1892; Hannah Smith, from 1892 to 1894; Mary Hansen, from October 25, 1894, to December 4, 1898; Emma Hansen, from December 4, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

On December 31, 1899, the officers were: Henry Larsen, superintendent; Arnold Nielson, first assistant; Mary Hansen, second assistant; Emma Hansen, secretary.

GRACE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—This school was organized June 8, 1895, with S. W. Egbert, superintendent; D. S. Jerman, first assistant; John J. Cherry, second assistant; Stella Egbert, secretary. On June 6, 1897, the school was reorganized, and since that time the following named have been in office: Landon Rich, superintendent; George Tanner, first assistant; George Hamp, second assistant; Favorette Rich, secretary. At the time of organization its officers and teachers numbered 11; the number of pupils first enrolled cannot now be given. The enrollment December 31, 1899 was 16 officers and teachers and 96 pupils.

The school meets in the Grace schoolhouse.

HATCH SUNDAY SCHOOL was organized November 21, 1897, and its first session convened a week later in the house of Thomas A. Hatch. It began with 6 officers and teachers and 30 pupils. The enrollment on December 31, 1899, was 13 officers and teachers and 52 pupils. Previous to November 27, 1898, the settlement of Hatch was called Eighteen Mile Creek.

The names of the present officers of the school are: George Williams, superintendent; Thomas A. Hatch, first assistant; James T. Williams, secretary.

The historical report shows that George Williams has been a Sunday School worker for over 45 years; John Detton, for over 35 years; and William T. Higginson for over 30 years.

LUND SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The first Sunday School held in Lund convened in a log house owned by E. M. Stocks. Later a log school house was built and occupied by the Sunday School. The date of the organization of the school is November 17, 1895. Its first officers were Henry E. Reddish, superintendent; C. J. Lundgren, first assistant; F. A. Rindlisbacher, second assistant; and Lillie M. Reddish, secretary. On June 7, 1896, Amanda Peterson was appointed secretary. F. A. Rindlisbacher was appointed first assistant superintendent, and A. P. Hansen second assistant superintendent on the 29th day of August, 1897. On the 30th day of July, 1899, A. P. Hansen was released and Ephraim White was appointed as second assistant superintendent. The officers on December 31, 1899, were: H. E. Reddish, superintendent; F. A. Rindlisbacher, first assistant superintendent; Ephraim White, second assistant superintendent; and Amanda Peterson, secretary.

The school is held in the district schoolhouse. At the time of organization the membership of the school was 6 officers and teachers and 16 pupils; it now numbers 19 officers and teachers and 85 pupils.

MOUND VALLEY SUNDAY SCHOOL is situated in Perry. It was organized in 1876, with David Brown, superintendent. Successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries of the school are the following named:

Superintendents—David Brown, Robert Williams, Jr., Thomas Hale, Solomon Hale,* J. D. McGregor, from 1884 to April 22, 1888; O. M. Fullman, from April, 1888, to December, 1891; Edgar D. Hale, from December, 1891, to December, 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—J. H. Hale, from 1884 to April 22, 1888; John Hansen, from April, 1888, to December, 1891; Joseph Ames, from December 1891, to October, 1897; Charles Panter, from October, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—Rais Cahoon;† R. H. Williams, Jr., from 1884 to April 22, 1888; Edgar D. Hale, from April, 1888, to December, 1891; Aroet C. † The period of service of this officer is not obtainable.

The enrollment of the school shows 19 officers and teachers and 92 pupils.

SODA SPRINGS SUNDAY SCHOOL.—As early as the year 1874 a Sunday School was held in Soda Springs. The children and teachers met in a log house built for President Brigham Young, located on the south side of the town. The records of this early school are not obtainable. Charles G. Rose was superintendent, and Daniel F. Lau, assistant.

On October 20, 1889 a more complete organization was effected, with Charles G. Rose, superintendent; Daniel F. Lau, first assistant; William W. Sterrett, second assistant; Thomas H. Horsley, secretary. At that time there were 10 officers and teachers and 30 pupils in the school. The present enrollment is 18 officers and teachers and 71 pupils. With the exception of the second assistant superintendent the officers of the school on December 31, 1899, were the same as when it was completely organized, in 1889. On October 20, 1895, William W. Sterrett was succeeded by Burt A. Ruud, as second assistant superintendent. School sessions are held in the Soda Springs meetinghouse.

The historical report shows that L. Suhrke has been a Sunday School worker for over 30 years, and Charles G. Rose and Daniel F. Lau for over 25 years.

THATCHER SUNDAY SCHOOL is in Gentile Valley. It was organized in May, 1880. The enrollment at the time was 6 officers and teachers and 11 pupils. The school was first held in a small log house belonging to James Clark. This house was situated only a short distance from the site of the present meetinghouse, in which the school is now held. Following is a list of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries of the school:

Superintendents—Alma Hale, H. H. Peck, Solomon Hale, Jr., Milton Thatcher, Ira Hogan, Alexander Harris, all of whom served between the time of organization and August 18, 1895; George Peck, from August 18, 1895, to February 27, 1898; George D. BEAR LAKE STAKE.

All Sunday Schools of Bear Lake County, Idaho and some in Rich County, Utah, are embraced in the Bear Lake Stake.

In August, 1877, William M. Allred was called to preside over the Sunday Schools of this stake. In April of the following year the stake Sunday School superintendency was completely organized with the following named officers: Andrew Galloway, superintendent; James E. Hart, first assistant; James Peard, second assistant; Edgar M. Allred, secretary. Superintendent Galloway continued in office until July 10, 1898, when he was honorably released, and a new corps of officers was chosen. In 1882 Martin Jacobson succeeded James E. Hart as first assistant superintendent; and in 1892 John Sorensen was chosen to that position, in place of Martin Jacobson, who was released. In 1882, William West succeeded James Peard, as second assistant superintendent; and John Sorensen, succeeded William West in 1887. On November 2, 1896, Joseph Hodges was chosen as successor to John Sorensen. Those who have filled the position of secretary, previous to the reorganization of July 10, 1898, are: Edgar M. Allred, Heber C. Keetch, Elijah Keetch, and George E. Gardner. On December 31, 1899, the officers were: Joseph R. Shepherd, superintendent; John A. Sutton, Jr., first assistant; Oliver C. Dunford, second assistant; George B. Spencer, Jr., secretary; and Joseph W. Hayward, treasurer. There are six missionaries called to aid the superintendency.

Since the organization of the Bear Lake Stake of Zion, its boundaries have been extended and contracted several times, causing the number of schools, as well as the enrollment, to fluctuate considerably. On December 31, 1899, the schools of the stake numbered 22, but at other times there have been as many as 29.

The historical report shows that Andrew Galloway has been a Sunday School worker for over 35 years.

EAST BOUNTIFUL SUNDAY SCHOOL.—There was a Sunday School in Bountiful (formerly called Sessions Settlement) as early as 1853, and it is believed it was commenced as early as 1852. It was held at the home of Jeremiah Willey, who was the first superintendent. When the adobe school house was finished it was removed to that building. Some time later William H. Lee was appointed assistant superintendent.

This early school was discontinued in 1857 on account of the approach of the United States army, and the schoolhouse was used as a commissary and gathering place for the home guard.

When the settlers returned after the move of 1858, school was held at different times until January, 1868. In 1866 Charleston Goldsborough was superintendent.

In January, 1868, a reorganization was effected. At this organization a president of the school was appointed. Henry Rampton occupied this position until November 27, 1872, when he was appointed to preside over the three schools in what was then the Bountiful ward. He continued in this position until January, 1879.

At the organization of January, 1868, Allen Frost was appointed superintendent, John Kynaston, assistant superintendent, and Edward Cooke, secretary, under the supervision of President Henry Rampton, of what is now known as the East Bountiful School. At that time there were 15 officers and teachers; the number of pupils is not known.

Successive officers of the school are:

Superintendents—Allen Frost, from January, 1868, to June, 1869; John Kynaston, from June, 1869, to April 14, 1880; Charles R. Jones, from April 14, 1880, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—John Kynaston, from January, 1868, to June, 1869; John Telford; Charles R. Jones;* David Lewis, from April 14, 1880, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—Charles R. Jones; David Lewis,* Ianthus H. Barlow, from April 14, 1880, to April 28, 1895; Alfred Burningham, from April 28, 1895, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Edward Cooke, from January, 1868, to 1869; James Waite, from 1869 to 1884; George A. Lincoln, from 1884 to July 30, 1893; Israel Call from July 30, 1893, to May 22, 1898; Alma Hardy from May 22 to May 29, 1898; Florence E. Barlow, from May 29, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

The school now numbers 39 officers and teachers and 662 pupils. The place of meeting is the East Bountiful Tabernacle.

The historical report shows that Charles R. Jones, David O. Willey, and Martha Duncan have been engaged in the Sunday School work for upwards of thirty years; and Jaren Tolman, Alfred Burningham, Albert Shirley, Israel Call, David Lewis, Alma Hardy and Joseph T. Mabey have been Sunday School workers for upwards of twenty-five years.

FARMINGTON SUNDAY SCHOOL.—In August, 1852, the Farmington Sunday School was organized by Ira Oviatt. His wife, Ruth Oviatt, assisted him, and his son, Franklin Oviatt, acted as secretary. There were about 15 pupils attending at that time. This effort met with so little encouragement that it was soon discontinued.

During the summer of 1855, the question of re-organizing the school was agitated, and through the influence of Bishop John W. Hess, a reorganization was effected in August of that year, with Thomas C. Stayner, superintendent, O. L. Robinson, first assistant, James T. Smith, second assistant and secretary. With this organization, the school continued until the time of the general move south, which occurred in 1858. After the return from the south, the school convened in the

The school is held in Farmington meetinghouse. Its present enrollment is 32 officers and teachers and 372 pupils.

The historical report shows that Superintendent James T. Smith has been a Sunday School worker for over 40 years.

KAYSVILLE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—In the year 1867 a school was started in this place. It was held in the meetinghouse, and was presided over by William L. Payne with William Smith as assistant superintendent.

William Stokes, and Thomas Boynton were also superintendents part of the time from the year 1867 to 1871. How long each one acted as superintendent is not known.

Successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries since 1871 are:

Superintendents—James T. Walker, from 1871 to 1874; James H. Linford, from 1874, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—Hyrum Stewart, from 1871 to 1874; William L. Payne, from 1874 to 1880; William Blood, from 1880 to December 31, 1899.

* The period of service of these officers is not obtainable.

Second assistant superintendents—James H. Linford, from 1871 to 1874; William L. Payne, from 1880 to 1885; William Forley, from 1885 to 1887; Heber J. Sheffield, from 1887 to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—James H. Linford, Jr., from 1880 to 1892; Hubert G. Burton, from 1892 to 1898; William S. Burton, from 1898 to December 31, 1899.

The enrollment on December 31, 1899, was 30 officers and teachers and 502 pupils.

The historical report shows that Superintendent James H. Linford has been engaged in Sunday School work for over 25 years.

LAYTON SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The first school held in this ward convened in a small district schoolhouse, about the year 1880. At that time it was known as the Northeast Kaysville school—Layton being formerly a part of Kaysville.

The first officers of the school were: Alexander Dawson, superintendent; George W. Adams, first assistant; William N. Nalder, second assistant; William A. Dawson, secretary; all of whom served until May 25, 1890.

Successive officers of the school aside from the above-named are:

Superintendent—E. P. Ellison, from May 25, 1890, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—Alexander Dawson, from May 25, 1890, to May 14, 1899; A. B. Cook, from May 14, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—T. J. O'Brien, from May 25, 1890, to March 11, 1894, and from August 1, 1897, to November 6, 1898; A. B. Cook, from March 11, 1894, to August 1, 1897, and from November 6, 1898, to May 14, 1899; F. H. Nalder, from May 14, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—George W. Green, Jr., from May 25, 1890, to March 11, 1894; William A. Dawson, from March 11, 1894, to January 1, 1897; Elijah King, from January 1, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

The school convenes in the Layton ward meetinghouse, and has an enrollment of 19 officers and teachers and 248 pupils.

KANAB STAKE.

Kane County, Utah, originally comprised portions of Washington and Iron counties, and as early as 1869 five Sunday Schools were organized in settlements which have since been annexed to Washington County. A Brother William M. Black was recognized as county superintendent of Sabbath Schools at that time.

The earliest Sunday Schools held in any of the settlements within the present county limits began in the year 1871, with George Spillsbury as county superintendent. He continued in this position until the year 1877. In that year the Kanab Stake of Zion was organized, embracing all of Kane County, Utah, and a part of northern Arizona, with James L. Bunting as stake superintendent of Sunday Schools.

The names of the successive stake officers are as follows:

Superintendents—James L. Bunting, from January, 1877, to June 9, 1878; Allen Frost, from June 9, 1878, to May 31, 1887; Charles H. CEDAR CITY SUNDAY SCHOOL was first organized in the Old Fort, in 1852, with James Bosnell, superintendent. It had four or five teachers and about 70 pupils. The town grew rapidly and the school increased in numbers until 1858, when its enrollment was about 250. The latter date marks the time of the "big move," when so many people went away that the town was almost depopulated. In 1857 a few families moved to the new town which is the present city. It being too far to go from this place to the fort, a branch school was established here the following year, with Joseph H. Smith, superintendent. It was held in an old adobe schoolhouse, and had an enrollment of about 25 pupils, with 4 or 5 officers and teachers. The school is now held in the district schoolhouse and ward hall, and has an enrollment of 40 officers and teachers and 600 pupils.

SALT LAKE STAKE.

This stake of Zion is co-extensive with the county of Salt Lake. For several years after the organization of the Deseret Sunday School Union those called to look after Sunday School affairs in each county were known as county Sunday School officers; and it was not until 1876, that they were recognized as stake officers. The headquarters of the Union being located within the Salt Lake Stake, the Sunday School interests of the latter were, during earlier years especially, closely connected with the general organization. Hence we find on the statistical report of Sunday Schools for 1872 the name of General Superintendent George Q. Cannon as superintendent of Salt Lake County, and that of General Secretary John B. Maiben as county secretary.

On November 4, 1873, George Goddard was appointed Sunday School superintendent for Salt Lake county, which position he held until November 4, 1882. He was assistant general superintendent of the Union during this same period, and was released from his labors in a local capacity on the date last named in order to devote himself to his more extended duties as a general Sunday School officer. He was succeeded as stake superintendent by John C. Cutler, and the latter was in turn succeeded, in March, 1891, by Thomas C. Griggs, the present superintendent. No assistant superintendents were chosen until 1876.

The names of those who have served as assistant superintendents and secretaries are:

First assistant superintendents—William Willes, from 1876 to November 6, 1882; Thomas E. Taylor, from November 4, 1882, to 1886; David R. Lyon, from 1886, to March, 1891; Richard S. Horne, from March, 1891, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—Samuel L. Evans, from September 10, 1876, to November 4, 1882; Richard S. Horne, from May 7, 1883, to March, 1891; Willard C. Burton, from March, 1891, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—John B. Maiben, general secretary of the Union, acted as county secretary from 1872 to August, 1875; William Willes, from 1877 to 1880; O. H. Riggs, from 1880 to 1884; Joseph H. Parry, from February 11, 1884, to December 31, 1899.

The present stake officers are: Thomas C. Griggs, superintendent; Richard S. Horne, first assistant; Willard C. Burton, second assistant; and Joseph H. Parry, secretary.

The names of stake Sunday School missionaries past and present, so far as have been obtained, are: Frederick A. Mitchell, Stephen R. Marks. John C. Cutler, Levi W. Richards, John Alford, Jesse W. Fox, Jr., Robert A. Ure, George Hardy, A. S. Geddes, William T. Cannon, Joseph Burrows, George Arbuckle, Charles M. Cannon, Brigham W. Ashton, J. W. Kerr, John E. Clark, C. H. Barrell, Laron Pratt, David W. James, Edwin F. Parry, Stephen H. Love, Alonzo Young, Miles A. Romney, William Bradford, E. O. Taylor, Orson D. Romney, William M. Stewart, Joseph W. Maynes, Orson H. Worthington, H. B. Clawson, Jr., J. W. Saunders, Henry Tuckett, Eli H. Peirce, D. W. Parratt, Robert H. Hodge, S. B. Young, Jr., William H. Anderson, Joseph Lindsay, Joseph W. Mackay, Eugene C. Miller, Marlon E. Andrus, George Hickenlooper, W. N. B. Shepherd, Ludwig Larson, A. F. Rundquist, A. Bollinger.

The historical report shows that Richard Horne has been a Sunday School worker over 40 years; Thomas C. Griggs and Henry Tuckett, over 35 years; Joseph H. Parry, over 30 years; Orson H. Worthington and William Bradford, over 25 years.

BIG COTTONWOOD SUNDAY SCHOOL.—This school first convened in May, 1864, without a complete organization. It was then under the direction of Isaac Harrison, with Elizabeth Boyes as assistant. A year later B. B. Bitner took charge for a short time. He was followed in turn by Alexander DeWitt, Dilworth Brinton, and John Rider. The above named brethren were assisted by different members of the ward. The school was fully organized in July, 1876. At that time it numbered 8 officers and teachers and 55 pupils. The present

The historical report shows that John Cartwright and Richard T. Chamberlain have been engaged in Sunday School work over 30 years; and John M. Chamberlain over 25 years.

SALT LAKE CITY NINTH WARD SUNDAY SCHOOL.—From the journal of Catherine E. Woolley, we find the first Sunday School was held June 1, 1854, and continued to September 16 of the same year. The school was held in the evening, in place of morning as is now the custom. The school was again held during the warm weather of 1855. In the spring of 1856 Bishop Taft organized the school with Isaac Groo superintendent and Catherine E. Woolley assistant. This organization continued until the “move” of 1858.

The record shows that the school was reopened as early as 1865, under the direction of our present Bishop, Samuel A. Woolley.

The names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries from 1856 to December 31, 1899, so far as known, are:

Superintendents—Isaac Groo, from 1856 to 1867; John Taylor, from 1867 to 1872; George W. Groo, from 1872 to 1874; John Taylor (second term) from 1874 to 1875; John Cutler, from 1875 to 1877; James Woods, from 1877 to 1879; John Taylor, (third term) from 1879 to 1884; Thomas Garrard, from 1884 to October, 1899; A. M. Woolley, from October to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—Catherine E. Woolley, from 1856 to 1867; Samuel H. Woolley, from 1867 to March, 1870; James H. Crockwell, from March, 1870, to 1874; George W. Groo, from 1874 to 1875; James H. Crockwell, (second term) from 1875 to 1879; Thomas Garrard, from 1879 to 1884; John W. Reese, for a short term in 1884; A. M. Woolley, from October, 1884, to October, 1899; A. H. Woolley, from October to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—John W. Reese, from 1879 to 1884; A. M. Woolley, for a short term in 1884; John W. Reese, (second term) from July, 1885, to 1893; A. H. Woolley, from 1893 to October, 1899; W. N. Davis, from October to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Samuel H. Woolley, from 1867 to March, 1870; James H. Crockwell, from March, 1870, to 1875; John Brown, Jr., from 1875 to 1876; James H. Crockwell, (second term) from 1876 to 1877; John F. Taylor, from 1877 to 1879; John E. Evans, from 1879 to 1881; A. M. Woolley, from 1881 to 1888; Hyrum Case, from 1888 to December 31, 1899.

The school has an enrollment of 23 officers and teachers and 209 pupils. It is held every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock in the ward meetinghouse and annex, corner of Fourth South and Fifth East Streets.

SALT LAKE CITY TENTH WARD SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The first permanent Sunday School in this ward was organized August 6, 1865, by Bishop John Proctor, with Benjamin Lang, superintendent and Benjamin J. Beer, secretary. For some twelve or fifteen years before this time a school had been conducted by Daniel Tyler, under the sanction of Bishop Pettigrew. At the time of organization the school numbered 110 members; its enrollment on December 31, 1899, was 35 officers and teachers and 507 pupils. It is held in the ward meetinghouse.

The names of the successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries are:

Superintendents—Benjamin Lang, from August 6, 1865, to December 14, 1870; William Ostler, from December 14, 1870, to April, 1871; George Baddley, from May 30, 1871, to July 6, 1873; James C. Woods, from July 6, 1873, to September 20, 1891; Charles W. Symons, from September 20, 1891, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendent—Robert B. Miller, from July 6, 1873, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—William Poll, from, July 6, 1873, to April 26, 1874; Nephi Howarth, from April 26, 1874, to spring of 1878; Oliver Hodgson, from June, 1880, to February 13, 1887; Samuel E. Baxter, from February 13, 1887, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Benjamin J. Beer, from August 6, 1865, to May 4, 1873; Sarah A. Taylor, from May 4, 1873, to May 9, 1880; Mary E. Taylor, from May 9, 1880, to April 12, 1885; Mary Hillam Higgs, from April 12, 1885, to January 18, 1891; Emily Hillam Higgs, from January 18, 1891, to March 25, 1894; Hattie Symons Woods, from March 25, 1894, to January 27, 1897; Nellie Newton Oswald, from January 27, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

The historical report shows that James H. Harrison, has been a Sunday School worker over 35 years; Benjamin J. Beer, James C. Woods, William Taylor and Robert B. Miller, over 30 years; Edward S. Lovesy and James Oswald over 25 years.

SALT LAKE CITY ELEVENTH WARD SUNDAY SCHOOL was organized July 1, 1855, and first convened in what is now the west wing of the ward meetinghouse, corner of Eighth East and First South Streets, the present place of holding school. It has an enrollment of 38 officers and teachers and 471 pupils.

Following are the names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries:

Superintendents—William A. McMaster, from July 1, 1855, to 1865; William S. Brighton, from 1865 to December 19, 1869; James P. Freeze, from December 19, 1869, to 1876; Mark Barnes, from 1876 to February 9, 1879; Henry Tuckett, from February 9, 1879, to January 8, 1888; Willard Done, from January 8, 1888, to September 21, 1890; Charles Livingston, from September 21, 1890, to October 13, 1895; Alexander McMaster, from October 13, 1895, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—John Coulam, Jr., from July 1, 1855, to 1865; James P. Freeze, from 1865 to December 19, 1869; William S. Brighton, from December 19, 1869, to 1876; Joseph H. Felt, from 1876 to March 12, 1877; Robert Morris, from March 12, 1877, to February 9, 1879; Richard B. Sampson, from February 9, 1879, to January 8, 1888; Richard Bridge, from January 8, 1888, to November 24, 1889; David Cameron, from November 24, 1889, to October 13, 1895; Arthur W. Brown, from October 13, 1895, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—Henry A. Dixon, from 1865 to December 19, 1869; Henry Tuckett, from December 19, 1869, to 1876; John H. Sears, from November 8, 1891, to January 21, 1894; Spiers Lawson, from January 21, 1894, to March 14, 1897; Marie Morris, from March 14, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

The historical report shows that Samuel T. Woods and Henry Tuckett have been Sunday School workers upwards of 35 years; and James P. Freeze over 30 years.

SALT LAKE CITY TWELFTH WARD SUNDAY SCHOOL.—William H. Shearman is credited by old-time residents with having established the first Sunday School in this ward, while it is claimed by some that James McKnight had some time previously conducted for a short period a Sunday School class in a little log meetinghouse near where the present ward chapel stands, in which the school now convenes. The first Sunday School in the ward of which a record is preserved was organized January 3, 1863, and was held in a small adobe building on First South between Fourth and Fifth East Streets. It began with 3 officers and teachers and 16 pupils. The present enrollment is 28 officers and teachers and 132 pupils.

The names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries since 1863 are:

Superintendents—Henry C. Fowler, from January, 1863, to 1870; Robert Campbell, from 1870 to 1874; Alexander C. Pyper, from 1874 to 1877; J. C. Kingsbury, from June, 1877, to October, 1879; T. V. Williams, from October, 1879, to January, 1897; S. B. Young, Jr., from February, 1897, to June, 1898; H. E. Campbell, from June, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—John Druce, from January, 1863, to 1870; T. V. Williams, from August, 1870, to 1874; John G. Midgley, from June, 1877, to February, 1897; James H. Wardrop, from February to October, 1897; J. C. Lyon, from October, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—John R. Winder, Jr., from June, 1877, to 1880; Z. T. Derrick, from 1880 to November, 1894; James A. Wardrop, from January, 1895, to February, 1897; Heber

K. Aldous, from April to June, 1897; J. C. Lyon, from June to October, 1897; H. E. Campbell, from October, 1897, to June, 1898; William Woods, Jr., from June, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—James McKnight;* George D. Pyper, from July, 1879, to May, 1885; G. B. Wells, from May, 1885, to October, 1886; H. F. McEwan, from October, 1886, to May, 1889; John H. Knight, from May, 1889, to January, 1895; John K. Hardy, from January, 1895, to December, 1897; Alexandria H. Eldredge, from January, to December, 1898; Clare Williams, from January to December 31, 1899.

The historical report shows that T. V. Williams and Emma H. Derrick, have each been Sunday School workers over 30 years; and Z. T. Derrick over 25 years.

SALT LAKE CITY THIRTEENTH WARD SUNDAY SCHOOL.—This school has been established since March 30, 1867. Its enrollment at the time of organization was 15 officers and teachers and 235 pupils. At present its enrollment is 21 officers and teachers and 190 pupils. The decrease in the enrollment is owing to the fact that a considerable part of the ward is situated within the business district of the city, and the residence portion is growing less year by year. The school is held in the ward meetinghouse.

The names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries are:

Superintendents—A. M. Musser, from April 7, 1867, to January 29, 1871; George Goddard, from January 29, 1871, to February 6, 1876; William Naylor, from February 6, 1876, to January 26, 1893; Francis Platt, from January 22, 1893, to December 12, 1897; Heber S. SALT LAKE CITY FOURTEENTH WARD SUNDAY SCHOOL.—It was in this ward that Elder Richard Ballantyne organized the first Sunday School in Utah, December 9, 1849, an account of which has already been given in the fore part of this volume. It appears that this early school after being conducted for a few years was discontinued for a time, the exact period not being known. There is some record of a Sunday School being in operation in 1856. It was held in what was known as Ballou's Hall. It is evident that at the time of the "move" this school with others was again discontinued. In 1864

Cannon Stewart, from May 26, 1895, to December 31, 1899.

The present enrollment of the school shows 17 officers and teachers and 152 pupils.

SALT LAKE CITY FIFTEENTH WARD SUNDAY SCHOOL.—This school was first organized by Richard Ballantyne in the winter of 1856 and 1857. This organization was maintained for more than a year, being discontinued in consequence of the move south at the time of the advent into Utah of Johnson's army. The school held its early sessions in a little adobe schoolhouse on the premises of the present ward meetinghouse. Later the school convened in the building known as the "Granary," and since the erection of the ward Assembly Hall it has been held in the latter building.

The growth of the ward necessitated the organization of a branch school, which was effected December 3, 1893, and was maintained until May 24, 1898, when the Twenty-fourth Ward, formed of the western portion of the Fifteenth Ward, was organized. The school has an enrollment of 24 officers and teachers and 219 pupils.

* The period of service of these officers is not obtainable.

Following are the names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries.

Superintendents—Richard Ballantyne;* John K. Hall, from April 10, 1865, to September 20, 1874; Thomas C. Griggs, from September 20, 1874, to March 15, 1891; William S. Burton, from March 15, 1891, to December 31, 1899.

and placed John Pulsipher in charge. This school was discontinued some time later, and in the early sixties, according to the recollection of the old residents of the ward, another organization was effected, and a school was conducted for a time by George W. Mousley. The time from which the permanent organization dates its existence is April, 1868. Since then the organization has been continued and school has been held regularly with the exception of two short intervals. When the school opened in 1868, it numbered 13 officers and teachers and about 60 pupils. The present enrollment shows 33 officers and teachers and 532 pupils. The school convenes in the ward Assembly Rooms, on Fifth West between North Temple and First North Streets.

The names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries since 1868 are:

Superintendents—William J. Newman, from April, 1868, to winter of 1870; Henry Emery, from winter of 1870 to July, 1877; James W. Phippen, from August 5, 1877, to August 7, 1881; Peter Gillespie, from August 7, 1881, to January 2, 1896; David S. Emery, from February 9, 1896, to November 13, 1898; Arthur Frewin, from November 13, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

MANTI NORTH WARD SUNDAY SCHOOL.—It appears from the records that a Sunday School was organized in Manti as early as March 12, 1854, by Gardner Snow and Albert Smith, and continued under the same superintendency until the fall of 1862, when William K. Barton was appointed superintendent, with Abraham Washburn and John Bench, assistants. In the spring of 1871, William T. Reid was chosen superintendent, with James Crawford and John H. Hougaard, assistants. A year later William K. Barton resumed the office of superintendent with William T. Reid and John H. Hougaard, assistants. Again, in 1874, another change occurred, when John H. Hougaard was appointed superintendent, and chose James Crawford and William K. Reid for assistants.

These officers continued to act until March 3, 1878, when two schools were formed: one in the North Ward, and one in the South Ward. At this time the North Ward school numbered 29 officers and teacher and 92 pupils. It now has 36 officers and teachers and 260 pupils. The school meets in the Council House.

The names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries of the North Ward school since its organization are:

Superintendents—John H. Hougaard, from March 3, 1878, to March 7, 1880; William K. Reid, from March 7, 1880, to July 4, 1884; J. H. Wodskow, from January 4, 1884, to December 31, 1899.

Bingham, from August 1893, to February 10, 1894; Bert Glines, from February 10 to August 10, 1894; James C. Hacking, from August 10, 1894, to August 18, 1895; Byron O. Colton, from August 18, 1895, to August 28, 1898; Stella S. Colton, from August 28, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

The historical report shows that Thomas Bingham, Jr., has been a Sunday School worker over 30 years; Annie M. Hacking and Mary Hall over 25 years.

PLEASANT VIEW SUNDAY SCHOOL is in Naples. It was organized July 6, 1890, and its first session convened July 20 following. It began with 10 officers and teachers and 22 pupils, and now has 21 officers and teachers and 102 pupils. The school is held in the ward schoolhouse.

George A. Davis has been superintendent from the time of organization to December 31, 1899. George J. Slauch and George A. Slauch were chosen as his assistants at the time of organization. The first was succeeded by Edward Watkins on April 17, 1898, and the second by Isaac J. Slauch, on July 5, 1891.

Successive secretaries are the following-named: William T. Clark, from date of organization to March 25, 1894; Joab Collier, from April 1, 1894, to April 11, 1897; John H. Cook, from April 18, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

RIVERDALE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—In 1885 a school was established in this place with M. M. Mecham, superintendent. He was succeeded by Charles Holmes, and the latter by David Timothy. Some time previous to February, 1890, the ward was divided, and the last-named superintendent took charge of the lower ward school now know as the Jensen school, while the school in the upper ward which retained the name of Riverdale was discontinued for a time.

On February 22, 1891, the school was reorganized, and began with an enrollment of 9 officers and teachers and 35 pupils. It now has 11 officers and teachers and 39 pupils.

The first officers were: N. C. Hunting, superintendent; G. H. Southam, first assistant; Joshua Haslam, second assistant; and Sarah A. Hunting, secretary. January 17, 1897, the above-named were succeeded by E. J. Longhurt, superintendent; G. H. Southam, first assistant; Elmer Pope, second assistant; Lizzie Englebretson, secretary. The last-named are the present officers.

SILVER GATE SUNDAY SCHOOL was organized March 5, 1899, with the following-named officers: R. Liddiard, superintendent; George Mitchell, first assistant; E. Marrett, second assistant; and Martha Brown, secretary. On December 3, 1899, George W. Perry was chosen superintendent. He chose the same assistants as his predecessor had and the same secretary continued in office. The enrollment of the school is 10 officers and teachers and 30 pupils.

SOUTH VIEW SUNDAY SCHOOL has been established since January 4, 1891, when it began with 8 officers and teachers and 12 pupils; the present enrollment is 17 officers and teachers and 73 pupils.

The first officers of the school were: James Howett, superintendent; Nathaniel Greer, first assistant; Delbert Wall, second assistant; N. D. Remington, secretary. On April 30, 1893, William Gillman was chosen superintendent; Elmer Eaton, first assistant; and Joseph Eaton, second assistant. On April 3, 1898, James Cook succeeded Second Assistant Superintendent Joseph Eaton; and December 18, following the latter was chosen first assistant superintendent and Ernest Eaton, second assistant. Secretary N. D. Remington was succeeded January 6, 1895, by Ernest Eaton, and on December 18, 1898, the latter was succeeded by Edward Cook.

On December 31, 1899, the officers were: William Gillman, superintendent; James Cook, first assistant; Ernest Eaton, second assistant; and Edward Cook, secretary.

The historical report shows that James Howett has been a Sunday School worker over 25 years.

UNION SUNDAY SCHOOL.—This school is in Vernal Ward and was organized May 13, 1883. It was first held in a log cabin, but is now held in the ward schoolhouse.

The names of its first officers are: Joseph H. Black, superintendent; W. Riley Green, first assistant; S. P. Dillman, secretary. In 1893, George Fraughton was chosen as first and Elias S. Winn as second assistant superintendents and W. P. Ramey, secretary. On February 18, 1894, a change in the superintendency occurred, when Elias S. Winn was chosen superintendent, with George Fraughton first assistant, and John Winn, second assistant. On May 28, 1899, another change was made, when the following-named, who are the present officers, were installed: John Winn, superintendent; Ira N. Jacobs, first assistant; James W. Winn, second assistant; and Lucy J. Westover, secretary.

The present enrollment is 7 officers and teachers and 59 pupils.

VERNAL SUNDAY SCHOOL has been established since June, 1879. It has an enrollment of 24 officers and teachers and 291 pupils, and convenes in the Stake Assembly Hall.

The names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries are:

Superintendents—Joseph H. Black, from June, 1879, to August, 1881; James Hacking, George Freestone and C. C. UTAH STAKE.

The Sunday School movement in Utah Stake dates from 1852, American Fork leading, with Leonard S. Harrington as organizer. The commencement of the Sunday School work in Provo City occurred in the fall of 1853, when Elders William W. Allen, Henry White and L. John Nuttall and Sister Elizabeth Roper organized a school with the approval of Bishop Elias H. Blackburn, and classes were conducted in the first log meetinghouse, located on the block north of the present west square. This school continued most of the time until the winter of 1856, doing much good. During the period known as the "move" there were no schools. In 1858 Sister Lucy Smith, wife of the late President George A. Smith, opened a private Sunday School in the now Third Ward. It had an intermittent existence, being alive during the summer months and dying out in the winter. In 1860, further efforts were made and a school was conducted in the Third Ward meetinghouse. After which, in 1862, Elders David John, L. John Nuttall, Samuel S. Jones, James E. Daniels, Albert Jones and others organized and carried on Sunday School classes and exercises under the bowery, located on the southwest corner of the block now known as the Bank Block, until the basement of the old meetinghouse was prepared. There the Sunday School had a comfortable home; some two of the classes were held in the upper part of the building. The labors of these indefatigable Elders are remembered and appreciated by many of the rising and leading men of Provo of today.

On October 10, 1865, Elder David John was called and set apart as county superintendent, with Samuel S. Jones as his assistant.

In 1867, to further aid the cause, Superintendent John called to his assistance William Paxman, of American Fork, Isaiah M. Coombs, of Payson, who, with himself and Assistant S. S. Jones traveled throughout the county visiting and organizing schools. Elder John acted as superintendent for 28 years, lacking three months, and Samuel S. Jones as assistant all this time. In 1876 the Provo school was divided by organizing one in each of the four wards.

February 1, 1883, Elder William Paxman resigned, being called to Juab as stake president. Elder I. M. Coombs died May 20, 1886. The vacancies were then filled by George Webb, of Lehi, and shortly after his appointment George H. Brimhall was also called to assist Elder John. In 1892 Alfred L. Booth and Lars E. Eggertsen were chosen as assistants and immediately made visits to the respective schools under the direction of Superintendent John. On July 17, 1893, David John resigned, owing to his many duties in the stake presidency, of the Utah Stake and Lars E. Eggertsen was made stake superintendent, with Alfred L. Booth and William S. Rawlings as assistants. In 1898, with the consent of the stake presidency and Union Board there were called as aids Leonard S. Harrington, Grace Brimhall, Angie Webb and Arthur J. Southwick. Each one of these has a special department, to look after.

The names of successive stake secretaries are: James Hardy, from 1873 to 1895; Edward H. Holt, from 1895 to 1899; Ora Holbrook present incumbent.

There are 49 Sunday Schools in the Utah Stake of Zion, historical sketches of which follow:

ALPINE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The first Sunday School of Alpine was held in the fall of 1860, in an old log house, located near the northwest corner of the old fort wall. In early days the school usually convened at 2 p. m. In 1863 the school was removed to the new ward house which is now known as the City Hall. Later it was moved to the large meetinghouse where it convenes at the present time. It began with 6 officers and teachers and 25 pupils, and has since increased to 21 officers and teachers and 206 pupils.

The names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries are:

Superintendents—William J. Strong, from 1860 to 1864; George Clark, from 1864 to 1874; Albert Marsh, from 1874 to 1893; Isaac R. Vance, from 1893 to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—Richard T. Booth, from 1860 to 1864; George Freestone, from 1864 to 1874; John Devey, from 1874 to 1893; Henry Moyle, from 1893 to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—John W. Vance, from 1860 to 1864; Albert Marsh, from 1864 to 1874; Henry Moyle, from 1874 to 1893; Joseph T. Bateman, from 1893, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—John W. Vance, from 1860 to 1864; Isaac R. Vance, from 1874 to 1893; Ellen A. Moyle, from 1893 to December 31, 1899.

The historical report shows that Henry Moyle and Albert Marsh have been Sunday School workers over 35 years; William J. Strong and Samuel W. Brown, over 30 years; John A. Vance and Isaac R. Vance, over 25 years.

AMERICAN FORK SUNDAY SCHOOL.—This school was first established in 1852, the first session being held on the 4th of July of that year. It began with about 25 members. It continued for one year and then discontinued for three years in consequence of Indian troubles. Resuming operations in 1856, it again closed in 1858 on account of the "move," when Johnston's army came to the valley. In 1860 the school reconvened and has continued without further interruption. It is now held in the district schoolhouse.

Following are the names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries:

Superintendents—Leonard E. Harrington, from 1852 to 1853; John Bourne, from 1856 to 1862; William Paxman, from 1864 to 1883; Warren B. Smith, from 1883 to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—William Greenwood, from 1852 to 1853; Leonard E. Harrington, from 1856 to 1862; Isaac Abel, from 1864 to 1883; William Grant, from 1883 to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—William Greenwood, from 1856 to 1862; William R. Webb, from 1883 to 1898; George F. Shelley, from 1898 to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Joseph B. Forbes, from 1873 to 1874; Ebenezer Hunter, from 1874 to 1883; James H. Clarke, from 1883 to 1886; Leo T. Shelley, from 1886 to 1893; George F. Shelley, from 1893 to December 31, 1899.

The present enrollment of the school shows 47 officers and teachers and 540 pupils.

The historical report shows that Isaac Abel has been a Sunday School worker over 45 years; William Grant, over 40 years; Warren B. Smith, Jemima Durrant and Mary A. Evans, over 30 years; William R. Webb, Amos Wagstaff, Joseph B. Forbes, Martin Hanson, James Gardner and Ellen D. Clarke, over 25 years.

BENJAMIN SUNDAY SCHOOL.—Until June 12, 1886, Benjamin Ward was a part of Payson. The Sunday School in this place was organized in 1874, and at that time had 5 officers and teachers and 20 pupils. Its enrollment has since increased to 26 officers and teachers and 173 pupils. The place of convening is the ward meetinghouse.

The names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries are:

Superintendents—Richard Yates and B. F. Stewart, in turn from 1874 to 1885; O. H. Warner, from 1885 to 1892; Eli B. Hawkins, from 1892 to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—B. F. Stewart and O. H. Warner, in turn from 1874 to 1885; Charles Hawkins, from 1885 to 1892; Joseph H. Hand, from 1892 to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—R. S. Betts and Isaac Hansen, in turn from 1885 to 1892; Isaac Hansen, from 1892 to 1894; C. J. Selin, from 1894 to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Richard Yates and S. M. Richardson, in turn from 1874 to 1885; Hyrum Hand, from 1885 to 1894; Robert L. Campbell, from 1894 to 1898; Fred Evans, from 1898 to December 31, 1899.

The historical report shows that Eli B. Hawkins, O. H. Warner and S. M. Richardson have been Sunday School workers over 25 years.

BRIGHAM YOUNG ACADEMY SUNDAY SCHOOL.—Early in the history of the Brigham Young Academy, perhaps in the year 1882—for a record seems not to have been kept till 1883—there was organized a Sunday afternoon class known as missionary meeting. Its programs consisted of singing, prayer, the sacrament, a short discourse, the answering of questions, then the bearing of testimonies, the last being considered by far the most important part of the proceedings. It was a very popular gathering and drew most of the students together on the Lord's day.

When the school removed to its present quarters, however, the attendance became too large to secure the best results by a single class. Accordingly, on November 14, 1892, the Brigham Young Academy Sunday School was organized with President Benjamin Cluff, Jr., as superintendent, and Elders G. H. Brimhall and N. L. Nelson as assistants. There being over twenty rooms at its disposal and the entire teaching force of the Academy to draw from for instructors, classes were organized in almost every branch of religious training, the purpose at first being mainly to supplement the regular theological work of the week.

During the following year the Sunday School Union Board, on an application from the Academy, established a regular normal training course for Sunday School teachers and called missionaries to attend it. In order that these missionaries might see the practice as well as receive the theory, the school was recognized on the line of a model Sunday School, the Sunday School Guide being followed as closely as possible.

In order to have a more thorough representation of the lower grades the Sunday School of the Fourth Ward of Provo City was merged with the Academy Sunday School and continued so from 1894 to 1896.

During these two years Sunday School workers from almost every stake visited the model Sunday School to study methods of discipline and instruction. By this means, as well as by the dissemination of ideas through the medium of the regular class in methods, the influence of the Academy has made itself felt far and wide in the Sunday Schools of Zion.

During the year 1893 the Sunday School normal course was of only five weeks' duration. The shortness of the course led to some unlooked-for results. Students had barely time to awaken to the defects in old methods, and to become enthusiastic over the finding out of new and better ones, but not time enough to grow sober in the application of their discoveries. In consequence there happened what always happens when zeal is unaccompanied by proper ballast; existing methods were disturbed and the schools were able to profit but very little by proposed innovations. During the year following the course was extended to twenty weeks, and since 1895 it has been made part of the high school curriculum, open to all students like any other elective study.

As before observed, the Fourth Ward Sunday School remained but two years as part of the Academy Sunday School. The undoubted advantages of more competent instructors and separate class-rooms gained by uniting with the Academy were off-set by two disadvantages. First, when vacation came the classes had to be reorganized under the ward instructors; and secondly, the annals of the ward showed only a blank for the years 1894 to 1896 so far as Sunday School work was concerned—a circumstance not likely to appeal to the pride of the ward. After consultation with the proper Sunday School officers, the school was withdrawn early in June, 1896.

The school remains, however, as nearly a model as the ability of the teaching force of the Academy can make it. Naturally enough, however, the first aim of the school has again become uppermost, that of making the religious instruction imparted, supplement and re-enforce as much as possible the regular theological training given during the week. Three classes deserve special mention: (1) a kindergarten, which aims to interest and instruct children below the age of six years; (2) a normal class which studies the principles of the Gospel from the special point of view of how to teach them; and (3) a missionary class which aims to fit young men for proselyting in the world. The latter is an unusually large and enthusiastic class. The rest of the classes are in the main organized according to the pattern laid down in the Sunday School Treatise.

The president of the institution has remained the superintendent. Changes in his assistants and in the minor officers have frequently occurred. The attendance since the withdrawal of the Fourth Ward Sunday School has varied from three to four hundred students, mostly grown young men and women. The school is a decided factor in the theological training of the Brigham Young Academy.

CEDAR FORT SUNDAY SCHOOL.—About the month of July, 1863, this school was first established. It is held in the public schoolhouse, and has an enrollment of 22 officers and teachers and 95 pupils.

Successive superintendents, assistants, and secretaries are the following-named:

Superintendents—James Rodeback, from 1863 to May 25, 1875; James Hacking, from December 23, 1877, to September 14, 1879; Samuel A. Wilcox, from September 21, 1879, to October 28, 1888; James Chamberlain, from October 28, 1888, to October 29, 1893; James Rodeback, from October 29, 1893, to May 10, 1896; James E. Garn, from May 10, 1896, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—Peter Peterson, from December 23, 1877, to September 14, 1879; James Chamberlain, from September 21, 1879, to October 28, 1888; James Rodeback, from October 28, 1888, to October 29, 1893; William Cook, from October 29, 1893, to May 10, 1896; Lysander Berry, from May 10, 1896, to September, 1897; James Peterson, from September, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—George A Glines, from December 23, 1877, to September 14, 1879; James H. Glines, from September 21, 1879 to October 28, 1888; William Cook, from October 28, 1888, to October 29, 1893; Lysander Berry, from October 29, 1893, to May 10, 1896; James Peterson, from May 10, 1896, to September, 1897; Joseph Wilcox, from September, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Boyd Wilcox, from December 23, 1877, to September 14, 1879; Phoebe A. Hacking, from September 24, 1879, to October 16, 1881; Lizzie Bennett, from February 6, 1887, to September 28, 1891; Fanny Berry, from October 29, 1893, to September, 1897; Nellie Cook, from September, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

The historical report shows that Margaret Bennett, Melissa Weeks, William Cook, Harriet Hacking and Annie C. Wilcox, have been Sunday School workers over 25 years.

CLINTON SUNDAY SCHOOL.—On July 10, 1892, this school was organized, and the following Sunday its first session was held in the district schoolhouse. It began with 12 officers and teachers and 26 pupils and now has an enrollment of 13 officers and teachers and 54 pupils.

Its officers past and present are the following-named:

Superintendents—Don C. Searle, from July 10, 1892, to March 14, 1897; John W. Drollinger, from August 1, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—Ann S. Elmer, from July, 10, 1892, to September 13, 1896; John W. Drollinger, from September 13, 1896, to August 1, 1897; John J. Loveless, from August 1, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

Second* assistant superintendents—John W. Drollinger, from September 24, 1894, to September 13, 1896; John J. Loveless, from September 13, 1896, to August 1, 1897; Jesse Barker, from August 1, 1897, to December 11, 1898.

Secretaries—Ruth I. Daniels, from July 10, 1892, to February 14, 1894; John T. Moore, from February 3, 1895, to September 13, 1896; Louie Sargent, from September 13, 1896, to December 11, 1898; Lizzie Drollinger, from December 11, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

FAIRFIELD SUNDAY SCHOOL.—This school began early in the sixties, but no record of its early existence is obtainable. It is held in the district schoolhouse, and has an enrollment of 8 officers and teachers and 58 pupils.

The names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries are:

Superintendents—Thomas Besinger;* Henry Snyder from January 16, 1881, to October 26, 1890; Andrew Park, from January 3, 1892, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—William J. Young, from January 16, 1881, to August 19, 1883; Samuel D. Carson, from November 11, 1883, to February 9, 1897; Hans Peterson, from February 7, 1897, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—Samuel D. Carson, from January 16, 1881, to November 11, 1883; James Finn, from November 11, 1883, to April 29, 1888; Andrew Park, from April 29, 1888, to January 3, 1892; Hans Peterson, from September 13, 1896, to February 7, 1897.

Secretaries—James Finn, from January 16, 1881, to November 11, 1883; Andrew Park, from November 11, 1883, to January 6, 1889; William Snyder, from January 6, 1889, to January 3, 1892; Nellie Carson, from January 3, 1892, to December 31, 1899.

GOSHEN SUNDAY SCHOOL.—As early as 1858 a Sunday School was conducted in the place known as the Old Fort. It convened in Phoenix Cook's house. As the entire settlement has been moved four times the school has been discontinued at various intervals. The Black Hawk Indian War in 1866 interfered with the continuance of the school, and it was not reopened from that time till 1870.

Some of those who took an active part in conducting the school during the early period of its existence are: Enoch Williams, William Price, Teancum Pratt and George Williams. Owing to lack of records a complete list of officers cannot be given.

On January 23, 1881, a reorganization was effected. At this time the enrollment was 34 officers and teachers and 80 pupils. It is now 13 officers and teachers and 150 pupils. The place of convening is the ward meetinghouse.

Following are the names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries since 1881:

Superintendents—George Williams, from January 23, 1881, to July 1, 1883; Peter Okelberry, from July 1, 1883, to August 9, 1896; Powel Powelson, from August 9, 1896, to December 11, 1898; Arthur Dall, from December 11, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—Peter Okelberry from January

23, 1881, to July 1, 1883; George Gourley, from July 1, 1883, to August 9, 1896; William H. Allen, from August 9, 1896, to December 11, 1898; E. L. Thomas, from December 11, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—George Gourley, from January 23, 1881, to July 1, 1883; James H. Jenkins, from July 1, 1883, to August 9, 1896; John W. Gardner, from August 9, 1896, to December 11, 1898; Fred Allen, from December 11, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Mary Ann Till, from January 23, 1881, to August 9, 1896; Mattie Christenson, from August 9, 1896, to December 11, 1898; Nellie Christenson, from December 11, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

The historical report shows that James Gardner has been engaged in Sunday School work over 40 years; Ellison Gourley and Paul Gourley over 30 years; Peter Okelberry, John L. Jenkins, Philip Thomas, George Taylor, Mary Johnson, Nancy Steele, Pirene Jameson, Powel Powelson and John Morgan over 25 years.

LEHI NORTH BRANCH SUNDAY SCHOOL dates its origin from May 3, 1891, when it began with 11 officers and teachers and 101 pupils. It now has 20 officers and teachers and 220 pupils, and is held in the Lehi North Branch meetinghouse.

The first officers chosen were: Byron W. Brown, superintendent; George Beck, first assistant; J. P. Johnson, second assistant; John R. Peterson, secretary. The only change in the superintendency since the time of organization is the selection of W. S. Evans to succeed J. P. Johnson as second assistant. On June 10, 1894, William Asher succeeded John R. Peterson as secretary, and he in turn was succeeded, on September 17, 1896, by Eva Brown.

LINDON SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The first Sunday School held in this locality began early in 1872. It was held in a house belonging to John J. Slauch, under the direction of Joseph W. Ash, assisted by the ward teachers. This organization continued until 1874, when the members of this school met with the Pleasant Grove school in the ward meetinghouse until January 5, 1878. A school was then organized known as the Pleasant Grove South Branch. Joseph W. Ash had general supervision of three schools then existing in the settlement, namely: the North, Central, and South schools. Alfred Harper was superintendent of the South School. On March 3, 1878, James Cobbley and James Hooper were chosen as his assistants, with Edward A. Harris, secretary. The last-named was succeeded as secretary on January 2, 1881, by George R. Ash.

On February 5, 1888, the school began as an independent organization with James Cobbley, superintendent; George R. Ash, first assistant; Alfred W. Harper, second assistant; and Charles A. Cobbley, secretary. On April 12, 1891, the school was reorganized with George R. Ash, superintendent; Alfred W. Harper, first assistant; Robert Thorn, second assistant; and Minnie Bjork, secretary. The last-named was succeeded by James H. Walker, on December 23, 1894. July 9, 1899, Robert Thorn was succeeded as second assistant by John Y. Walker.

The name of the ward was changed to Lindon, September 25, 1898. The present officers are: George R. Ash, superintendent; Alfred W. Harper, first assistant; John Y. Walker, second assistant; and James H. Walker, secretary.

The enrollment of the school is 20 officers and teachers and 204 pupils. It convenes in the ward meetinghouse.

EVANSTON SUNDAY SCHOOL, of Uinta County, Wyoming, was organized about the close of 1875 or beginning of 1876, by Bishop William G. Burton. Its first officers were; Charles Carpenter, superintendent; James Burdett, assistant. In January, 1880, Charles Checketts was chosen superintendent, with William Willison, assistant, and John T. Whittle, secretary. From 1882 to 1885 James B. Smith was superintendent, and James Whittle, Jr., assistant; Henry Matthews was then installed as superintendent and was succeeded on March 4, 1888, by James B. Smith. The latter's assistant was A. S. Anderson. On March 31, 1889, the school was reorganized: Frank Mills was chosen superintendent; Isaac Dawson, first assistant; Daniel Gerrard, second assistant and secretary. In 1896 Annie Holstead succeeded Daniel Gerrard as secretary. Again, on August 20, 1899, a change of superintendency occurred, when Jeremiah Cross was chosen superintendent; William Caldwell, first assistant; and Ira Eldredge, second assistant.

The school has an enrollment of 18 officers and teachers and 172 pupils.

Hilliard Branch of the Evanston Sunday School was organized

July 17, 1898, with Henry Lester, superintendent; John Wagstaff, first assistant; and John Bate, second assistant. It began with 3 officers and teachers and 24 pupils, and now has 3 officers and teachers and 25 pupils.

FORT BRIDGER SUNDAY SCHOOL was organized February 26, 1899, with C. E. Olend in charge temporarily, and Augusta Youngberg, secretary. On July 2 following a more complete organization was effected, with J. F. Thompson, superintendent; C. E. Olend, first assistant; Samuel Strong, second assistant; Augusta Youngberg, secretary. It is located in Uinta County, Wyoming, and has an enrollment of 11 officers and teachers and 77 pupils.

HAM'S FORK SUNDAY SCHOOL is in Uinta County, Wyoming, and is a branch of the Diamondville school. It has been organized since August 8, 1897. Ephraim Stock is superintendent; Hyrum J. McCann, first assistant; David F. Nelson, second assistant; and Ida Stock, secretary. The school is held in private houses, and has an enrollment of 7 officers and teachers and 14 pupils.

OWEN SUNDAY SCHOOL, of Uintah County, Wyoming, has been established since June 6, 1897. Beginning with 8 officers and teachers and 20 pupils it has increased to 11 officers and teachers and 74 pupils. To accommodate the people in their scattered condition the school has been divided and now three schools are held in private houses.

Following are names of successive superintendents, assistants, and secretaries:

M. Carey, from 1897 to 1898; Henry Williams, from 1898 to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Joseph Bell, from 1891 to 1893; William Nisbet, from 1893 to 1896; Ephraim Harris, from 1896 to 1897; Thomas Russell, from 1897 to December 31, 1899.

ROCK SPRINGS SUNDAY SCHOOL is in Sweetwater County, Wyoming. A school was held here from April, 1882, to 1884, and from 1885 to 1887, without a complete organization. It convened in the house of Alexander Beveridge. It has been permanently established since June 26, 1887. The school began with 14 officers and teachers and 70 pupils, and now has 10 officers and teachers and 75 pupils. Its sessions are held in the ward meetinghouse.

Following are the names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries:

Superintendents—Alex. Beveridge, from June 26, 1887, to May 15, 1892; John A. Guild, from May 15, 1892, to December 25, 1898; Frederick Reese, from December 25, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—William Dyet, from June 26, 1887, to June 23, 1889; James Crookston, from September 29, 1889, to May 15, 1892; Sam Fletcher, from May 15, 1892, to September 24, 1893; James H. Syme, from June 20, 1895, to December 25, 1898; Martin McPhie, from December 25, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—George Syme, from June 26, 1887, to May 15, 1892; James H. Syme, from May 15, 1892, to June 20, 1895; William Noble, from June 20, 1895, to December 25, 1898; Alexander Fletcher, from December 25, 1898, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—James Crookston, from June 26, to September 25, 1887; William C. Syme, from October 9, 1887, to April 10, 1892; James Crookston, from May 15, 1892, to December 31, 1899.

SMITH'S FORK SUNDAY SCHOOL.—This school is in Wyoming and was organized November 6, 1898, in Agnes Cunningham's house. Its officers are: Robert Kidman, superintendent and Caroline Strong, secretary. The enrollment is 14 officers and teachers and 75 pupils.

WOODRUFF SUNDAY SCHOOL.—This school is in Rich County, Utah, and was organized April 25, 1875. Previous to this date a school had been held since 1871, under the direction of the bishopric of the ward. From an enrollment of 10 officers and teachers and 51 pupils at the time of organization it has increased in numbers to 8 officers and teachers and 162 pupils. The school convenes in the ward meetinghouse.

Following are the names of successive superintendents, assistants and secretaries:

Superintendents—S. C. Putnam, from April 25, 1875, to February 24, 1889; Samuel Bryson, from February 24, 1889, to December 31, 1899.

First assistant superintendents—Charles Dean, from April 25, 1875, to November 29, 1896; T. J. Tingey, from November 29, 1896, to December 31, 1899.

Second assistant superintendents—Samuel Bryson, from April 25, 1875, to January 1, 1880; John Allen, from January 1, 1880, to March 1, 1882; Samuel Bryson, (second term) from March 1, 1882, to February 24, 1889; I. V. Eastman, from February 24, 1889, to December 31, 1899.

Secretaries—Charles E. Walton, from April 25, 1875, to January 1, 1880; John Allen, from January 1, 1880, to January, 1883; A. E. Eastman, from January 1, 1884, to February 24, 1889; J. H. Bevins, from February 24, to September 1, 1889; Charles J. Call, from September 1, 1889, to January, 1895; Joseph H. Neville, from January, 1895, to December 31, 1899.

The historical report shows that John M. Baxter, Agnes Baxter, Savanna C. Putnam and Samuel Bryson have been Sunday School workers over 25 years.

MISSION SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The principal purpose of this volume is to give a history of the growth of the Sunday School movement among the Latter-day Saints from 1849, the year in which the first Sunday School was established in Utah, to 1899—a period of fifty years. There were Sunday Schools organized and conducted by Latter-day Saints previous to the year 1849. These were in mission fields abroad. No doubt the earliest of them were organized in Great Britain; and it appears that they were established in that land at an early period in the history of the work there. Elder John Crook, of Heber City, Wasatch County, Utah, in a letter published in the Juvenile Instructor of August 15, 1899, says he attended a Sunday School conducted by the Latter-day Saints as early as the year 1844. A part of his letter upon the subject is herewith reproduced:

I want to give my recollections of Sunday School work of the Latter-day Saints. I was born in 1831. My father was baptized in September, 1840, in Bolton, Lancashire, England, eleven miles north of Manchester. In 1844 Joseph and Hyrum were martyred in Carthage jail. It took a little time those days to get the news to Europe, say until about the first of August. There was at least one Sunday School in England about that time. The school was held in Bury Street Chapel, Bolton, in the lower room at one o'clock p. m. Meeting being in the upper room at two p. m. I was a scholar in that Sunday School, and remember that on a particular day the scholars went to meeting upstairs and found the stand decorated with crape. I asked some one older than myself, "What does this mean?" Some one said, "In memory of the martyrs Joseph and Hyrum." This was a dreadful shock to me. I remember as well as if it were yesterday. I was then not quite thirteen years old. * * *

I have no dates when this school was organized, but I think school had been running one year anyway at the time of the incident I mention. I can safely say I had attended a long time before that. I have said that my father was baptized in September, 1840, and my sister Alice and myself attended meetings with father. I well remember us two holding to his hand and walking by his side about two and one half miles on Sunday to school and meeting. If any of the Bolton Saints who attended meeting in those early days are alive, I call their attention to the first meeting place in Bolton—Back King Street; narrow entry, upstairs. A Brother John Haslam was one of the superintendency of the school when the above occurrence took place. I believe he emigrated about 1846; and then a Brother James Haslam took charge of the school.

Several other correspondents of the Juvenile Instructor make mention of early Sunday Schools established by members of the Church in Great Britain.

Elder Evan S. Morgan, of Liberty, Bear Lake County, Idaho, says that, in the year 1851, he attended a Sunday School conducted by the Latter-day Saints in the Alltwell Branch of the Western Glamorganshire Conference, South Wales, it being presided over at that time by a Brother Richard Gibbs.

Elder Peter Greenhalgh, of Bloomington, Bear Lake County, Idaho, makes the following statement concerning the organization of another early Sunday School in the British Isles:

At a meeting of the local Priesthood of the Radcliff Branch of the Manchester Conference, I suggested to the brethren the propriety of commencing a Sunday School where the children of the Saints could be brought together on the Sabbath morning. The brethren approved the suggestion and the organizing of the Sunday School was placed on me. The school was organized in the early spring of 1853, was continued up to the time I emigrated in the spring of 1854; and was continued by Brother Joseph Crosley (who was my assistant in the school) for one or two years, or until he left England for Utah.

Still another school established in the early fifties is mentioned by another correspondent. Elder Robert Aveson, of Salt Lake City, writes that about the year 1854 a Sunday School was opened in Great Camden Street, Camden Town, London. One of the chief promoters of this school, the writer goes on to say, was Sister Helen R. Webb, who afterwards emigrated to this country and resided in Salt Lake City. A Brother Cornell and this lady were the teachers in this school, and it was conducted with the sanction and approval of the president of the branch, Brother George Ferguson. The books used were the New Testament and Jaques' «Catechism for Children.» The latter work was formerly a favorite text-book in Sunday Schools abroad as well as here in Zion.

Elder Joseph W. Summerhays, of Salt Lake City, states that late in the fifties he attended a Sunday School in the Chelsea Branch of the London Conference, which was conducted by Brother Thomas Wootton.

Other schools besides these mentioned here were to be found in various parts of Great Britain at a comparatively early date; but, as is the case today in many of the missions, they were not permanent institutions. On account of the constant changes occasioned by the emigration of the Saints the continued existence of any one of them was uncertain.

Sunday Schools are still to be found in many of the branches of the Church in that land. Some of these schools are conducted by the missionaries laboring there, while others are presided over by local brethren. In either case changes occur so frequently that it would be impracticable to note them here even if a complete record were preserved; and where a record has been kept it is an exception and not the rule.

What is said about the Sunday Schools of the Saints in the British mission will apply to a great extent to those of many other missions. As early as 1882 reports were sent from the Sunday Schools of the Hawaiian Islands, and in 1883 reports were also received from the Northwestern States Mission; but not until 1891 did the practice of forwarding such reports annually from the various missions of the Church become general. Owing to a lack of further information, the few facts regarding the Sunday School work in the missions abroad, presented in the following pages, are all that can now be given.

In all cases where other persons have not been chosen to fill such positions, the presidents of missions of the Church abroad are recognized, and designated in the following reports, as mission superintendents of Sunday Schools.

AUSTRALIA.—Previous to 1897 the Sunday Schools of Australia and New Zealand were reported together. During the year named the mission was divided, and the report for 1898 shows that there were 4 schools in Australia, having a membership of 4 officers and teachers and 154 pupils. Elder F. E. Barker was superintendent at that time and still holds the position. The report for 1899 shows 5 schools, with 17 officers and teachers and 170 pupils.

CALIFORNIA.—The first Sunday School report received from this mission was for the year 1892. But one school, with 3 officers and teachers and 7 pupils, was then organized, James T. Garlic being superintendent. The report for 1899 shows 6 schools with a total enrollment of 30 officers and teachers and 170 pupils. Elder Ephraim H. Nye is the mission superintendent.

COLORADO.—The first missionaries of the Church appointed to labor in this State arrived in Denver in December, 1896. On February 21, 1897, under the direction of Apostle John W. Taylor, the president of the Colorado Mission, a Sunday School was organized in Professor Martine's Hall, 1646 California Street. The officers chosen were: John H. Boshard, superintendent; Horace S. Ensign, musical director; David Mann, organist, and Charles S. Heermance, secretary. After continuing for some time this school was suspended. It was reorganized on March 20, 1898, with Charles R. Long superintendent. He was without assistants until December 17, 1899, when Thomas Divett was chosen first assistant, and Jane W. Skolfield, second assistant. Annie Hawkins succeeded Minnie Brewer as secretary on January 1, 1898; and on March 20 following Laura I. Divett, the present secretary was chosen. The school is held in Woodman Hall, 1715 California Street. Its present enrollment shows 5 officers and teachers and 25 pupils.

On July 4, 1897, a Sunday School was established in Overland, a suburb of Denver, where a few Saints resided. A Brother Gary was chosen superintendent; Charles S. Heermance, first assistant; and Minnie Brewer, secretary. It began with 6 officers and teachers and 15 pupils. It was discontinued after running for a short time.

The Sunday School of Pueblo, Colorado, was organized under the direction of John E. Woolley, president of the South Colorado Conference, on March 14, 1897. It began with 10 members, and has since increased to 83 members. H. E. Cummings is superintendent of the school, and James Thomas Johnson, secretary.

A Sunday School was organized at Colorado Springs, in 1898, under the direction of Fred J. Pack, the conference president. Owing to the emigration of the Saints this school has been discontinued.

The above mentioned schools are the only ones in the mission. Apostle John W. Taylor is still president of the mission.

EASTERN STATES.—When first reported to the Deseret Sunday School Union, in 1894, this mission, then presided over by Elder Samuel W. Richards, had 2 Sunday Schools, with 7 officers and teachers and 46 pupils. It now has 12 schools, 78 officers and teachers and 365 pupils.

In most instances the schools are temporary organizations, conducted by the missionaries, but the Sunday School of Ocean Side, Long Island, is officered by local brethren, and gives promise of being a permanent institution. Elders Marcus Farr, E. D. Whiting and Henry J. Soper constitute the superintendency of this school. The mission superintendent is Elder W. H. Smart.

GERMANY.—Until 1897 the German and Swiss missions were combined. The earliest report of Sunday Schools in the mission is for the year ending December 31, 1891. At that time there were 2 schools, with 4 officers and teachers and 15 pupils. The report for the year ending December 31, 1899, shows 9 schools, 41 officers and teachers and 327 pupils. In 1891, J. J. Scharrer was superintendent. A. H. Schulthess is the present superintendent.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Reference has already been made, on page 511, to the Sunday School work in this land. The first annual report received from this mission was for 1891. It shows that there were then 11 Sunday Schools in the mission, with an enrollment of 25 officers and teachers and 174 pupils. The mission superintendent at that time was Apostle Brigham Young. The report for 1899, gives the number of schools as 31, having a total enrollment of 136 officers and teachers and 734 pupils. Elder Platte D. Lyman, is the mission superintendent.

HAWAII.—Reports from the Sunday Schools of this mission, which embraces the Sandwich Island group, have been received annually since 1882. The one for that year is somewhat imperfect, but the report for the year following (1883) is more complete, and shows that at that time there was 9 schools on the islands, with 43 officers and teachers and 292 pupils. Elder M. E. Pack was the mission superintendent at that period. The report for 1899 contains the following exhibit: Number of schools, 32; number of officers and teachers, 184; number of pupils, 1227; Elder Charles C. Bush, mission superintendent. As but few of the Saints have emigrated from these islands, the number of Sunday School members has steadily increased.

IOSEPA COLONY is located within Tooele County, Utah. It is composed of natives of the Hawaiian Islands and their descendants. It is of recent establishment, and its first Sunday School report is for the year 1894. At that time the one school organized in the colony had 7 officers and teachers and 34 pupils. Kauleinamoku, a native Hawaiian Elder, was the superintendent. The report for 1899 shows that the school has increased in numbers to 21 officers and teachers and 75 pupils. The present officers are: Kahana Pukahi, superintendent; David Kamaawe, first assistant; J. P. Nawahine, second assistant; Hannah Kaaepa, secretary.

NETHERLANDS.—In 1892, when the Sunday Schools of this mission were first reported, there were 4 schools there with 28 officers and teachers and 152 pupils. Elder Edwin Bennion was mission superintendent at that time. The report for 1899 gives the number of schools as 9, the number of officers and teachers, 66, and the number of pupils 396. Elder A. L. Farrell is the present mission superintendent.

NEW ZEALAND.—Previous to the year 1897, the Sunday Schools of New Zealand and Australia were reported together, as the two countries were included in the one mission. The earliest report received from the Sunday Schools of the New Zealand Mission was for the year ending December 31, 1891. There were then 25 schools established, with a total enrollment of 1800 members. The mission superintendent was William T. Stewart. The report for the year ending December 31, 1899, which presents statistics for New Zealand only, shows that there are now 26 schools there, with 91 officers and teachers and 787 pupils. All but 4 of the schools are composed of Maoris. Elder Ezra T. Stevenson is the mission superintendent.

NORTHERN STATES.—Formerly what is now the Northern States Mission was known as the Northwestern States Mission. Since the establishment of a mission still farther towards the northwestern part of the United States the name has been changed. The mission at present embraces the States of Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and the province of Manitoba, Canada.

In 1883, the Sunday Schools of this mission were first reported. There were then 3 schools organized with 13 officers and teachers and 50 pupils. The school of Johnsonville, Warren County, Indiana, is the only one from which a complete report was received at that time. It was organized July 2, 1882, with Jonathan Small, superintendent; W. R. Newell, assistant superintendent; and Emma Bever, secretary. The other two schools were organized in the spring of that same year, and, so far as can now be learned, were the first in the mission. Elder William M. Palmer was mission superintendent at that period. The present superintendent is Elder Louis A. Kelsch. The report for 1899, shows that there are now 14 schools in the mission with 78 officers and teachers and 332 pupils. Most of the schools are conducted by the missionaries.

NORTHWESTERN STATES.—This mission, which embraces Montana, Oregon, Washington, and that part of Idaho not included within the stakes of Zion, is of quite recent creation. The first Sunday School report received is that for the year 1898. There were then 12 schools organized and 86 officers and teachers and 232 pupils enrolled in them. The report for 1899 shows an increase to 17 schools, with 95 officers and teachers and 334 pupils. F. S. Bramwell has been mission superintendent during the past two years.

SOUTHERN STATES.—The earliest Sunday School report received from this mission is for 1893. It shows that there were at that period 6 schools established, with 27 officers and teachers and 143 pupils enrolled, Elder J. G. Kimball being mission superintendent. The report for 1899 presents the following exhibit: Number of schools, 115; number of officers and teachers, 591; number of pupils, 2262; Ben E. Rich, mission superintendent. Special attention has been given to Sunday School work in this mission during recent years, and each of its 17 conferences has a conference Sunday School superintendent who travels and labors in the interest of this work.

SOUTHWESTERN STATES.—This mission was formerly known as the Indian Territory Mission. It now embraces Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and the Indian Territory. The first report to the Deseret Sunday School Union, which was for the year 1894, states that there were then 4 Sunday Schools in the mission, containing 19 officers and teachers and 50 pupils. Elder Andrew Kimball was mission superintendent. The report for December 31, 1899, states that there were at that time 11 schools, with 67 officers and teachers and 284 pupils. The present mission superintendent is Elder William T. Jack.

SAMOA.—The first Sunday School in this mission was established by Elder Joseph H. Dean. It began August 26, 1888. On October 28, that same year, it was more fully organized with William O. Lee, superintendent; Delbert Beesley, first assistant; and Kapule, a native of the Sandwich Islands, second assistant. In 1891, when the first Sunday School report was received, this mission had 8 schools, 16 officers and teachers and 116 pupils. The mission superintendent at that time was Elder G. E. Bowring. The present superintendent is William G. Sears; and the report for 1899 shows there are 18 schools 36 officers and teachers and 368 pupils in the mission.

The natives take a deep interest in the Sunday School work. In Tuasivi, on the island of Savaii, for example, there is a school of 50, which includes the entire number of Church members; except in cases of sickness, every member is found in attendance each Sunday. The pupils are quick at learning, and are making rapid advancement in their Gospel studies as well as in learning the English language.

SCANDINAVIA.—The date when the first Sunday School of Latter-day Saints was established in this mission has not been obtained. The first Sunday School statistical report received from Scandinavia is for the year 1891. At that time Elder E. H. Anderson was the mission president. There were 6 schools reported, with 41 officers and teachers and 275 pupils enrolled. The report for 1899 shows 9 schools, 194 officers and teachers and 1023 pupils. The mission president is Elder Andreas Peterson.

SWITZERLAND.—Previous to 1897, the Swiss and the German missions of the Church were united, and the Sunday Schools of both countries were reported together. The first statistical report after the division was made is that for 1898, which only gives the number of schools, of which there were 5. A year later there were 8 schools, with an enrollment of 11 officers and teachers and 118 pupils. Elder H. E. Bowman is the mission superintendent. Owing to the scattered condition of the Saints the schools are small and incompletely organized. Usually they are conducted by the missionaries.

JUBILEE CELEBRATIONS, COMMEMORATING THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF THE LATTER-DAY SAINTS.

The proposition to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of Sunday Schools in this Rocky Mountain region was a pleasing idea entertained and put into execution by the Deseret Sunday School Union Board. It was decided that a grand celebration be held in Salt Lake City; and to secure as full a representation as possible of Sunday School workers from the various stakes of Zion, the time of holding it was set for Sunday evening, October 8, 1899—just at the close of the semi-annual conference of the Church, which was held during the three preceding days. As only a comparatively small proportion of the vast army of Sunday School members would be able to attend this gathering, and in order that all the children might have an opportunity to celebrate, it was further suggested by the Union Board that local jubilees be held in each ward throughout the stakes of Zion, and, so far as practicable, in the mission Sunday Schools abroad.

A full account of the interesting proceedings of the general celebration is herewith presented:

THE GENERAL JUBILEE CELEBRATION.

The general jubilee celebration commemorative of the establishment of the Sunday Schools of the Latter-day Saints, in the Rocky Mountains, was held in the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, Utah, Sunday evening, October 8, 1899.

The large Tabernacle was filled to its utmost capacity, before the opening hour, chiefly with Sabbath School workers, and very many people were unable to gain ingress. In addition to the general decorations of the building, there were placed in prominent positions large portraits of the Prophet Joseph Smith, the Patriarch Hyrum

REPRESENTATIVES OF NATIONS AND PEOPLES.

Smith, and Presidents Brigham Young, John Taylor, Wilford Woodruff and Lorenzo Snow; also a heroic bust picture of Richard Ballantyne; life size portraits of General Superintendent George Q. Cannon, President Joseph F. Smith, Elders George Goddard, John Morgan and most of the members of the quorum of the Apostles and Deseret Sunday School Union Board. Besides the general and stake officers of the Sunday School organization in places reserved, there were also seats reserved for and occupied by those who had been members of the first Sunday School, those who had been Sunday School workers forty-five, forty, thirty-five, thirty and twenty-five years, and for the husbands, wives and children of members of the first Sunday School, and reciters from different nations, of the Articles of Faith, winners of the prize medals awarded to the writer of the words and the composer of the music of the "Jubilee Hymn," awarding committees, the blind and deaf representatives; also the families of the late Elders Richard Ballantyne, George Goddard and John Morgan.

On the stand were, of the general authorities of the Church: Presidents Lorenzo Snow, George Q. Cannon and Joseph F. Smith; Patriarch John Smith; members of the council of the Twelve Apostles, Francis M. Lyman, John Henry Smith, Heber J. Grant, George Teasdale, Anthon H. Lund, Matthias F. Cowley, Abraham O. Woodruff, and Rudger Clawson; members of the first council of Seventies, Seymour B. Young, C. D. Fjeldsted, George Reynolds, J. Golden Kimball, Rulon S. Wells and Joseph W. McMurrin; and Presiding Bishop William B. Preston.

Of the Deseret Sunday School Union officers there were: George Q. Cannon, general superintendent; Karl G. Maeser, assistant general superintendent; George Reynolds, general treasurer; George D. Pyper, general secretary; and Leo Hunsaker, assistant general secretary; of the members of the Sunday School Union General Board, George Q. Cannon, Karl G. Maeser, George Reynolds, Thomas C. Griggs, Joseph W. Summerhays, Levi W. Richards, Francis M. Lyman, Heber J. Grant, Joseph M. Tanner, George Teasdale, and Joseph F. Smith; aids to the General Board, L. John Nuttall, James W. Ure, John F. Bennett, John M. Mills, William B. Dougall, William D. Owen and Seymour B. Young.

General Superintendent George Q. Cannon presided.

At 7 p. m., Held's Military Band, which had kindly volunteered its services for the occasion, and which occupied a place in front of the choir seats, played an overture by Suppe, "Poet and Peasant."

At 7:20 p. m., General Superintendent George Q. Cannon announced the opening hymn, "Our God, we Raise to Thee," which was sung by the Tabernacle Choir and the congregation, under the leadership of Professor Evan Stephens, Professor Joseph J. Daynes being the organist.

Prayer was offered by Assistant General Superintendent Karl G. Maeser.

The Tabernacle Choir sang the hymn, "For the strength of the hills we bless thee, our God, our fathers' God."

The roll of stakes was then called by Secretary George D. Pyper, there being present representatives from all the forty stakes of Zion, as follows: Alberta, Bannock, Bear Lake, Beaver, Bingham, Box Elder, Cache, Cassia, Davis, Emery, Fremont, Juab, Juarez, Kanab, Malad, Maricopa, Millard, Morgan, Oneida, Panguitch, Parowan, Pocatello, Salt Lake, San Juan, San Louis, Sanpete, Seveir, Snowflake, St. George, St. John, St. Joseph, Star Valley, Summit, Tooele, Uintah, Wasatch, Utah, Wayne, Weber and Woodruff.

General Superintendent George Q. Cannon then spoke as follows:

It is gratifying to know that every stake has a representative here this evening.

I see that I am on the program for some introductory remarks. The time is so short that what I shall say will be very brief.

I am sure that every one present must be profoundly impressed with this assemblage of people this evening. Of the many sights we have had of a gratifying character, connected with the Sunday Schools, this certainly excells them all. It is exceedingly delightful to see the interest that is taken by the whole people in this grand work. The Sunday School has become an institution that is very dear to the hearts of this entire people. Every day that passes impresses its importance more and more on the minds of all. Every parent that has right conceptions concerning the future of their children, feels a deep and abiding interest in the Sunday School. The Sunday School Union Board has very little occasion to find fault with the management of the Sunday School, or with the lack of interest manifested by those who ought to take interest in it. Everybody recognizes the value of the Sunday School, and of its teachings, but there remains a great deal yet to be done. As Sunday School workers we should not be content until we have brought all the children of the land into the Sunday School and under its influence, so that these little fellows that now grow wild may be humanized and made to feel the responsibilities that will rest upon them when they grow to manhood. I am sure that everyone that labors in the Sunday School feels the importance of training their children and getting them to observe the Sabbath day and to refrain from visiting the street corners, behaving rudely and boisterously, or going fishing or hunting on the day which has been set apart by the Almighty for his worship, and which ought to be sacred in all our hearts. Our children should be impressed with the sacredness of this day. I hope to see the time when we shall have less of this unruly element in our streets and in our homes, and when our children shall become students in the Sunday School. The Sunday School is dear to the hearts of those children who do attend. They feel interested in it, and the influence of our teachings in the Sunday School is going to make, it may be said, a new generation. It is but a few years from childhood to manhood, and in our hands, Sunday School teachers and superintendents, is the formation of the character of the rising generation. As we impress them with the proper feelings and thoughts and teach them correct habits, so will they grow up to manhood and womanhood, and their influence will be felt for good wherever they move.

I pray God to bless this Sunday School movement, to bless every man and woman who labors in this cause and who devotes himself and herself to the promotion of righteousness in the midst of the rising generation. I ask this blessing in the name of Jesus. Amen.

Elder Francis M. Lyman read a paper prepared for the occasion, giving a condensed history of the general Sunday School movement among the Latter-day Saints, covering the period from 1849 to 1899. (In substance this sketch is embodied in the historical account of the Sunday School cause given in the fore part of this volume.)

General Superintendent George Q. Cannon next introduced the members of the first Sunday School, saying:

On the left of the stand are the surviving members of the first Sunday School, of which we have heard a description by Elder Lyman, and the roll will be called. The original roll, if there ever was one, cannot be found, but after years of inquiry, a number of those who were members of that school have been found, and their names are enrolled and will be read by the secretary, and as they are read, we wish each member to arise and say, "present." If there are any who are absent, whose names are called, Brother Summer-hays will explain the cause of their absence. Then badges will be given to those present.

Secretary George D. Pyper called the roll of members of the first Sunday School, the response to the names of those who were absent being made by Elder Joseph W. Summerhays, of the Sunday School Union General Board. The roll is as follows:

- Richard Ballantyne, died November 8, 1898.
- Angus M. Cannon, Salt Lake City.
- Joseph J. Taylor, Manti, Utah.
- Jacob Peart, Farmers' Ward, Salt Lake County.
- Mary Ann Taylor, died in California about ten years ago.
- Emily Hoagland Cannon, Salt Lake City.
- Henry Horne, Mesa City, Arizona.
- Adelia West Hoagland, Salt Lake City.
- John T. Rich, died in Brigham City, a year or two ago.
- John Turnbow, Kamas, Summit County, Utah.
- George J. Taylor, Salt Lake City.
- David H. Cannon, St. George, Utah.
- James Phelps, went to Australia in 1856 and never returned.
- Martha Van Cott Price, Goshen, Utah.
- Elizabeth Hoagland Cannon, died January 25, 1882.
- Margaret Oakley Best, Salt Lake City.
- Joseph S. Horne, Richfield, Utah.
- Richard Taylor, Ogden, Utah.
- Elizabeth Pugmire Taylor, Salt Lake City.
- Sophronia Ellen Leonora Turnbow Carter, St. George, Utah.
- Ann Logstroth Whitney, Mendon, Utah, wife of John Whitney.
- Augusta Braddock Clayton, Salt Lake City, wife of the late William Clayton.
- George A. Peart, Randolph, Utah.
- Lydia Phelps Thorpe, Salt Lake City.
- R. Frank Turnbow, Farmers' Ward, Salt Lake County.
- Samuel H. B. Smith, Salt Lake City.
- Olive Peck.
- Sarah J. Cannon, Salt Lake City.
- S. A. Whitney.
- Leonora Cannon Gardner, Pine Valley.

Those who responded as present were: Angus M. Cannon, Jacob Peart, Emily Hoagland Cannon, Adelia West Hoagland, George J. Taylor, David H. Cannon, Martha Van Cott Price, Margaret Oakley Best, Joseph S. Horne, Elizabeth Pugmire Taylor, Augusta Braddock Clayton, Lydia Phelps Thorp, and Samuel H. B. Smith.

Special badges had been prepared for these brethren and sisters, and they were pinned upon them by a committee composed of the daughters of the members of this first school.

Elder Angus M. Cannon, a member of the first school, spoke as follows:

The impression made upon my mind this evening, compared with my attendance at the first Sabbath School, is very great. There may have been fifty scholars in the original Sabbath School during the time it was held in Brother Ballantyne's house, but if there were a dozen persons present when the class was formed, I fail to remember it. The Fourteenth Ward was fenced with poles around the entire ward, bars being placed at the entrance of each street. Brother Ballantyne's house was new, and was made very comfortable with benches constructed hastily for our accommodation. Brother Ballantyne's soul was swallowed up in the good effects that this school would have upon the youth of this people; and I will say that the impressions that were created upon my mind regarding the object that God has in calling us from the world unto Zion was marked and has helped to shape my character up to the present time.

We were familiar with poverty. The meetinghouse that was occupied in this city stood on the southeast corner of this [Temple] block, known as the mud-covered bowery, constructed of Spanish adobes, one foot by eighteen inches in size. The meeting place we occupied in the Fourteenth Ward was in the house of Dr. Richardson, a little log hut. The meetinghouse we occupied in the Seventh Ward was Samuel Pitchforth's residence, where testimony meetings were held, and faith in God was promoted in our hearts. We rejoiced in the testimony that God gave us of his truth, having been informed by Brother Ballantyne that God had indeed restored the Gospel, established his Priesthood among men, called us from darkness unto light, from the world unto Zion, and that we were not to be of the world, but that we were to be the children of God, under the everlasting covenant; being taught that Joseph the Prophet, and Hyrum, his brother, had been martyred for the testimony of Jesus, and that we should be devoted to his cause, deny ourselves luxuries, be content with the necessaries of life, living in houses constructed by our industry, and possessing sufficient comfort to promote our health and give us strength, that we might cultivate these then barren wastes, procure the necessaries of life, carry the Gospel to a dark and benighted world, proclaiming that God has spoken from heaven for the regeneration of mankind, and to teach us that he was our Heavenly Father, and that our destiny was to become his children and enter into his celestial presence.

How faithfully Brother Ballantyne's testimony has been observed in the increase of Sunday Schools, is evidenced tonight in the number that are here assembled. And when I remember that God has promised us this increase and prosperity, and still greater increase and prosperity, provided we are loyal to him, every fibre of my being seems to enter in with my whole soul to pledge God loyalty, to observe faithfully, to pay my tithes and offerings unto him, in hope that he will give my children faith and make them firm supporters of his work in the establishment of his Gospel as he has revealed it and restored his Priesthood in these the last days.

I thank you for this opportunity, and for the honor conferred upon me, and pray God's blessing to be upon the general superintendency, the superintendents, the teachers and the scholars, and all the associations of Zion throughout the whole world, in the name of Jesus. Amen.

"Zion's Sunday School Jubilee Hymn," (words and music written for this occasion) was sung by the Tabernacle Choir.

Then followed the presentation of the gold medal awarded to Emily H. Woodmansee for the best hymn; also gold medal to the Rev. W. Daunt Scott, for the best musical composition.

The presentation was made by Elder Heber J. Grant, of the Deseret Sunday School Union Board, who spoke as follows:

A committee consisting of John Nicholson, Joshua H. Paul and George H. Brimhall was selected by the Sunday School Union Board to examine all hymns that were submitted in this competition and to decide upon the best composition. The committee were unanimous in awarding the gold medal for the words of this hymn to Sister Emily H. Woodmansee.

The committee appointed to examine the music and make the award for the best musical composition consisted of Arthur Shepherd, Anthony Lund and Squire Coop. They were unanimous in awarding the gold medal to Rev. W. Daunt Scott.

The Sunday School Union has always endeavored to get the best possible results by giving medals and prizes for musical compositions, and it gives me much pleasure, on behalf of the board, to present these medals to Sister Emily H. Woodmansee and to Rev. W. Daunt Scott.

The medals were pinned upon the prize winners by Mary Alice Hoagland Cannon and Maggie Peart Cardall.

A polyglot recitation of the Articles of Faith was then given under the direction of Elder George Teasdale, of the Deseret Sunday School Union Board. In this recitation a number of persons representing different nationalities dressed in the native costume, recited in the native tongue the Articles of Faith of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. On opening this exercise, Elder Teasdale read a portion of the 107th Psalm, as follows:

O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth forever.

Let the redeemed of the Lord say so, whom he hath redeemed from the hand of the enemy;

And gathered them out of the lands, from the east, and from the west, from the north, and from the south.

They wandered in the wilderness in a solitary way; they found no city to dwell in.

Hungry and thirsty, their soul fainted in them.

Then they cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivered them out of their distresses.

And he led them forth by the right way, that they might go to a city of habitation.

Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!

The recitation of the Articles of Faith was in the following order:

1. We believe in God, the Eternal Father, and in His Son, Jesus Christ, and in the Holy Ghost.

Recitation in German, by Gustav Weileman and Lena Dana, Swiss and German representatives from Bear Lake Stake.

2. We believe that men will be punished for their own sins, and not for Adam's transgression.

Recitation in Danish, by Christian T. Nelson and Jensenna M. Anderson, Danish representatives from Sevier Stake.

3. We believe that through the atonement of Christ, all mankind may be saved, by obedience to the laws and ordinances of the Gospel.

Recitation in Spanish, by S. C. Richardson and Pearl Whiting, representatives from Juarez Stake, Mexico.

4. We believe that the first principles and ordinances of the Gospel are: First, Faith in the Lord Jesus Christ; second, Repentance; third, Baptism by immersion for the remission of sins; fourth, Laying on of hands for the Gift of the Holy Ghost.

Recitation in Lamanitish tongue (Shoshone), by Ammon Pubigee and Willie Ottogary, American Indians, representatives from Malad Stake; then in the Maori language, by Hirini Whaanga and Mere Whaanga, Maoris, representatives from Salt Lake Stake; in Samoan language, by Angus Alston, Jr., and Tessie Garn, representatives of Salt Lake Stake, in Kanaka, by Henry Halemanu and Hannah Kaaepa, Hawaiians, representatives from Iosepa Colony; in Tahitian, by Eugene M. Cannon and Frank Cutler, representatives from Salt Lake Stake, who had been on missions to the Society Islands.

5. We believe that a man must be called of God by "prophecy and by the laying on of hands," by those who are in authority, to preach the Gospel and administer in the ordinances thereof.

Recitation in Swedish, by David Holmgreen and Emma S. Jensen, Swedish representatives from Box Elder Stake.

6. We believe in the same organization that existed in the primitive Church, namely, apostles, prophets, pastors, teachers, evangelists, etc.

Recitation in Dutch, by Kryn Van and Maggie Ables, natives of the Netherlands, representatives from Weber Stake.

7. We believe in the gift of tongues, prophecy, revelation, visions, healing, interpretation of tongues, etc.

Recitation in Welsh, by Elders David L. Davis and Evan Stephens, representatives from Salt Lake Stake.

8. We believe the Bible to be the word of God, as far as it is translated correctly; we also believe the Book of Mormon to be the word of God.

Recitation in French, by Xavier Sager and Marie Antoinette Lang, French representatives from Salt Lake Stake.

9. We believe all that God has revealed, all that He does now reveal, and we believe that He will yet reveal many great and important things pertaining to the Kingdom of God.

Italian representatives had been assigned this recitation in Italian, but they failed to respond and the article was read in English by Elder Teasdale.

10. We believe in the literal gathering of Israel and in the restoration of the Ten Tribes. That Zion will be built upon this continent. That Christ will reign personally upon the earth, and that the earth will be renewed and receive its paradisaical glory.

Recitation in Norwegian, by Leonard Willardson and Eleanor Olson, Norwegian representatives from Sanpete Stake.

11. We claim the privilege of worshiping Almighty God according to the dictates of our conscience, and allow all men the same privilege, let them worship how, where or what they may.

Recitation in Icelandic, by Loftar Bjarnason and Dena Bjarnason, Icelanders, representatives from Utah Stake.

12. We believe in being subject to kings, presidents, rulers and magistrates, in obeying, honoring and sustaining the law.

Recitation in Turkish, by Philip Maycock and Alice Howarth, representatives from Salt Lake Stake, the first named having been on a mission to Turkey.

13. We believe in being honest, true, chaste, benevolent, virtuous, and in doing good to all men; indeed we may say that we follow the admonition of Paul, "We believe all things, we hope all things," we have endured many things, and hope to be able to endure all things. If there is anything virtuous, lovely, or of good report or praiseworthy, we seek after these things.

Recitation in Celtic, by William A. Morton and companion, Irish representatives from Salt Lake Stake; then in Scotch dialect, by Robert Hogg and Nettie Durrant, Scotch representatives from Morgan Stake; and in English, by David Jeffs and Sister Hyde, American, (United States,) representatives from Davis Stake, by Roger Horrocks and Sarah Roberts, English representatives from Wasatch Stake, and by Ezra C. Robinson and Zina Y. Card, Canadian representatives from Alberta Stake.

Elder Teasdale then stated that, in addition to the nations that had been represented in the recitation of the Articles of Faith the Gospel had been preached in other lands, as follows: Isle of Man, Channel Islands, Finland, Russia, Hungary, Bohemia, Australia, Belgium, Friendly Islands, Marquesas Islands, Tuamotu Islands, Cook Archipelago, Leeward Islands, Austral Islands, Palestine, Turkey in Europe, Danubian principalities, Spain, Hindustan, Malta, Africa, China, Siam, Chili, East Indies, West Indies, Greece, Philippines, Japan and other countries.

All of those who had taken part in the recitation of the Articles of Faith then responded in unison to the following invitation from Elder Teasdale:

Now we will repeat in concert what has brought this all about, this wonderful gathering from the north, south, east and west, by a recitation of the sixth and seventh verses of the fourteenth chapter of Revelation, in the English language, by the representatives of these nations.

The passages recited in concert are as follows:

And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of water.

When this had been done Elder Teasdale spoke to the vast assemblage as follows:

We bear testimony that this angel has flown through the midst of heaven, and restored the everlasting Gospel, thus bringing to pass the gathering of this people, whom God hath redeemed from the hand of the enemy, gathered from the north, south, east and west, and brought to the marvelous light of his everlasting Gospel; and this wonderful, immense, assemblage of people gathered here tonight, to the glory of God, our Eternal Father, has been accomplished by the visitation of this angel and the restoration of the everlasting Gospel. To God and the Lamb be all glory, forever and ever. Amen.

It was announced by President George Q. Cannon that the Deaf Mute Sunday School was on the program for the recitation of the Lord's Prayer, but the school was quarantined owing to the prevalence of scarlet fever. Instead of this exercise the assistant superintendent of the Deaf Mute and Blind Sunday School, Elder Laron Pratt, of Salt Lake City, gave, in the deaf mute sign language, the hymn, "O, my Father," which was vocalized by his daughter, Maude Pratt Griggs, who sang the hymn in the English language.

President George Q. Cannon then stated that the school for the blind being quarantined also, on account of scarlet fever, the members could not be present, but in place thereof, Elder Joseph Hodgins, blind from his birth, would read from 29th chapter of Isaiah, the 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 18th and 19th verses. The reading was from a Bible for the blind, the reader following the raised letters with his fingers. The verses are as follows:

9. Stay yourselves, and wonder; cry ye out, and cry: they are drunken, but not with wine; they stagger, but not with strong drink.

10. For the Lord hath poured out upon you the spirit of deep sleep, and hath closed your eyes: the prophets and your rulers, the seers hath he covered.

11. And the vision of all is become unto you as the words of a book that is sealed, which men deliver to one that is learned, saying, Read this, I pray thee: and he saith, I cannot; for it is sealed:

12. And the book is delivered to him that is not learned, saying, Read this, I pray thee: and he saith, I am not learned.

13. Wherefore the Lord said, Forasmuch as this people draw near me with their mouth, and with their lips do honor me, but have removed their heart far from me, and their fear toward me is taught by the precept of men:

18. And in that day shall the deaf hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity, and out of darkness.

19. The meek also shall increase their joy in the Lord, and the poor among men shall rejoice in the Holy One of Israel.

General Superintendent George Q. Cannon then introduced in order the Sunday School officers and teacher who had been in service for 25, 30, 35, 40 and 45 years, respectively; and badges were pinned on the breasts of those present by daughters of members of the first Sunday School.

While the badges were being distributed a selection from "Lucia di Lammermoor," by Donizetti, was played by Held's Military Band.

President Lorenzo Snow then briefly addressed the vast congregation as follows:

I wish that I had words to express my astonishment at what I have witnessed during the accomplishment of this program. I feel in my heart to say, [God bless the Sunday School Union, and all who have taken part in pushing forward its interests. In all my travels through the world I have never seen anything that delighted me more than that which I have witnessed this evening. Your superintendent, President George Q. Cannon,—I ask that] the Lord will pour his Holy Spirit upon him abundantly in the future, 'as]he] has done in the past, in carrying forward the interests of this grand and glorious Sunday School work. Nothing can be shown in the world like that that has been shown tonight. God bless every person who has been engaged in the interests of the Sunday Schools—the superintendents, the aids, and everyone that has thus been employed, God bless them. He most] assuredly has blessed them, and a success has been accomplished that is certainly wonderful. God bless the Sunday School Union. Amen.

President Joseph F. Smith also addressed the meeting as follows:

It is said somewhere in the good old book that there is nothing new under the sun. That which we have witnessed here this evening comes about as near being a contradiction of this scripture as anything I ever have seen. We will not dispute the language of the wise man in relation to this matter. We will be contented with saying that it is something new under the electric lights. The repetition of the Articles of Faith in nineteen different languages and dialects (the result of the proclamation of this Gospel within the last sixty years) is something of which we may well be proud. I congratulate the superintendent of the Sunday Schools and his efficient aids and assistants, on the most wonderful display that has ever been made here, this evening, of the progress that is being made in the Sunday Schools, and in this glorious effort to promulgate the truth. I can only repeat the words of our beloved President, God bless our Sunday Schools.

President George Q. Cannon then said:

It is only proper that credit should be given to those who have done the work in preparing for this Jubilee. The brethren have taken hold of this with great zeal, and, as you have seen, they have made a success of that which they have undertaken. I cannot claim any credit myself, for my other duties have absorbed my time to a great extent. Still, I have counseled and directed to some extent. The workers on the Board, however and those who have assisted them, deserve whatever credit there is for that which we have seen and heard here tonight. I am pleased to be able to give them this meed of praise.

I may say that the Sunday School has been very dear to me. When I returned from Europe, after filling continuous missions for a long time, I elt there was an immense field in Zion for the labors of the Elders. I had seen how few souls could be gathered abroad, and when I reflected upon the numbers of our children at home, I felt a burning desire to spend all the time I could in trying to teach them the principles of the Gospel. Upon my return, in 1864, I organized a Sunday School in the 14th Ward, and other schools were organized directly afterwards. As soon thereafter as I could I published a little work, which I named the Juvenile Instructor. The Juvenile Instructor has been one of the best labors that I have ever been engaged in, because I have felt that it was doing good to our children. We can see today what an immense field is spread around us, furnishing every opportunity for every one who desires to thrust in his sickle and reap.

I am thankful to have President Snow and President Smith here to bless us, as they have tonight, and I pray that their blessings will be fulfilled, as I know they will be.

General Superintendent George Q. Cannon announced that those entitled to badges, who had not received them, could obtain them by calling on the secretary of the Sunday School Union, in the Union office in the Templeton Building, Salt Lake City.

The choir and congregation, accompanied by Held's Military Band, rendered, "Gather Round the Standard Bearer."

Benediction was pronounced by Elder John B. Maiben; and as the audience dispersed Professor Joseph J. Daynes rendered selections on the grand organ.

The names of those composing the several committees appointed to prepare for and assist in conducting the proceedings of this celebration are:

Executive Committee—Joseph W. Summerhays, Thomas C. Griggs, Levi W. Richards, John M. Mills, George D. Pyper.

Committee on Decorations—John M. Mills, John F. Bennett, Hugh J. Cannon.

Cannon, Hattie Burns Cannon, Mary M. Cannon, Leonora M. Cannon, Alice Cannon, Elizabeth R. Cannon, Mamie Price, Alfaretta Best, Libbie Best, Carrie Best.

LOCAL JUBILEE CELEBRATIONS.

As has already been mentioned, the Deseret Sunday School Union Board suggested that the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of Sunday Schools in Zion be fittingly commemorated in all the wards and branches of the Church. This idea received general favor among Sunday School workers; and much enthusiasm was manifested by many of them in carrying the suggestion into effect. The interest taken in the celebrations by the ward authorities and the people generally, also served to make them inspiring and memorable. The time for holding these local jubilee celebrations was Sunday, December 10, 1899, this being just fifty years and a day from the Sabbath on which the first Sunday School was held in Utah.

The following program of exercises for the occasion, as proposed by the Union Board, was carried out generally in all the gatherings of that day:

MORNING SESSION.

1—Roll-call of officers and teachers.

2—Singing, "Come Join our Celebration," (Sunday School Song Book, page 25.)

- 3—Invocation.
- 4—Singing, "Song of the Workers," (Sunday School Song Book, page 57.)
- 5.—Reading of the minutes of the previous regular session of the school.
- 6—Administration of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.
- 7—Introductory remarks by the superintendent followed by a brief history of the school, based upon the matter submitted in the historical report made to the Sunday School Union.
- 8—Singing, "Sowing," (Sunday School Song Book, page 63.)
- 9—Introduction, by assistant superintendent, of the member longest on the roll of the Sunday School; of the oldest (in years) member of the Sunday School; of the youngest (in years) member of the Sunday School.
- 10—In memoriam. Reading by assistant superintendent or secretary of lists of names of the prominent Sunday School workers (members of the ward) deceased, in the order of their decease.
- 11—Singing, "Land of the Blest," (Sunday School Song Book, page 11.)
- 12—Remarks by the bishop of the ward.
- 13—Recitation by the school of the Articles of Faith of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.
- 14—Remarks by stake officers or others present.
- 15—Singing, "Zion is Growing," (Sunday School Song Book, page 50.)
- 16—Benediction by patriarch if present.

AFTERNOON OR EVENING SESSION.

- Singing, "Our God we Raise to Thee," (Sunday School Song Book, page 198.)
- 2—Invocation.
- 3—Singing, "For the Strength of the Hills we Bless Thee," (Sunday School Song Book, page 196.)
- 4—Preliminary remarks by superintendent or assistant, explanatory of the two celebrations—the general one held in Salt Lake City, Sunday, October 8th, 1899, and the local one then being observed.
- 5—Singing or instrumental music.
- 6—Historical sketch of the organization of the first Sunday School in 1849.
- 7—Singing of prize song, "Zion's Sunday School Jubilee Hymn."
- 8—Reading of paper on the Sunday School movement, illustrating its growth.
- 9—Singing, "Thanks for the Sabbath School," (Sunday School Song Book, page 133.)

10.—Introduction to the audience, by the bishop, of veteran Sunday School workers present, and the officers and teachers of the school.

11—Brief remarks by a pupil of the theological department (representing the pupils of the school) appreciative of the labors of the officers and teachers.

12—Remarks by bishopric of the ward and others.

13—Singing, "Gather Round the Standard Bearer," (Sunday School Song Book, page 145,) and of the Doxology: "Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow," (Sunday School Song Book, page 200.)

14—Benediction.

The reports of the celebrations forwarded to the office of the Union indicate that the exercises rendered were in most instances of a highly interesting and impressive character; and in some cases certain features of the program were of a specially pleasing nature. In a number of schools those who had the work in hand to prepare for the occasion took particular pains to make it one that would be long remembered. Elaborate and tasty decorations of the buildings were made, neat souvenir programs were prepared and printed, some containing short historical sketches of the school together with the names of all its officers and teachers both past and present; and former workers in the school who were living were invited to be present at the celebration as honored guests. As was the case at the general jubilee, badges were furnished to veteran workers in the Sunday School cause. In many of the schools that had been established for a long period of years the reading of the historical sketches, the naming of deceased officers and teachers, and the presence of former workers and pupils brought to the minds of the older members many pleasing thoughts and vivid recollections of past scenes and incidents.

A feature of the celebration held in Farmington, Davis Stake, is worthy of special mention. It consisted of a remarkable record in favor of a former class in that school. Nineteen years previously this particular class was composed of fifteen young men. It was shown that these men have since been placed in positions of trust and honor in the Church. At the time of the jubilee two were stake presidents, five were bishops, four were Sunday School superintendents, two were assistants to stake superintendents of Sunday Schools, one was a president of seventies and a professor in one of the stake academies, and the remaining one a faithful worker in the Sunday School cause. Such a showing affords encouragement to the Sunday School worker, and is an impressive lesson as to the value of Sunday School training as a basis for future usefulness.

SUNDAY SCHOOL RECORDS DEPOSITED.

On November 5, 1900, at a special meeting of the Deseret Sunday School Union Board, at which most of its members were present, a copy of this JUBILEE HISTORY OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS SUNDAY SCHOOLS, and a number of mementos of the general and local Sunday School jubilee celebrations of 1899, such as badges, reports of jubilee proceedings, photographs, etc., together with Sunday School publications, current numbers of local magazines and newspapers, were placed for preservation in a suitably prepared casket. This receptacle was afterwards sealed and deposited in the Salt Lake Temple. The intention is that it shall remain there undisturbed until the year 1949—the centennial anniversary of the establishment of the first Sunday School in the Rocky Mountain region. With the records was also deposited a letter of greeting addressed to the general Sunday School officers of fifty years hence, and signed by the present members of the Deseret Sunday School Union Board. On the outside of the case containing the records mentioned is an inscription concerning their purport, and a request that the case be opened in 1949, by the general Sunday School authorities of that time.
